DEMAND JAIL FOR U. S. REDS

FRENCH STRIKE A RED DICTATOR PLOT--DALADIER

Premier Prepares to Crush Movement.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 27.—The French republic sailed head on into what may prove one of the stormiest periods of its recent history tonight when Premier Edouard Daladier, taking up the challenge flung at him by organized labor and leftist political groups, warned that he would use all available means to break the general strike of 5,000,000 workers which has been set for next Wednesday.

Anatole de Monzie.

Since among the means at the premier's disposal is the power to declare a state of siege, recalcitrant workers may find themselves marshalled to work under military conditions—and with military penalties for disobedience—unless they cancel the strike. The walkout was called as a protest against recent governmental decrees, including one to lengthen the forty hour work week.

Charges Red Dictator Plot.

Speaking over a nationwide radio hookup, Daladier branded last week's sit down strikes and the scheduled general strike as political blackmail.

"I have decided to put an end to such methods," the premier warned.

Brushing aside charges that his government was heading toward a Fascist dictatorship, Daladier asserted that the strike agitation itself was a veiled attempt to set up a radical dictatorship over the French proletariat.

Anatole de Monzie, minister of public works, also warned the workers in a radio broadcast. He said the government would consider the labor contracts of the railroad workers broken if they participate in the walkout. Those who refuse to work will be discharged, he said.

Workers Remain Defiant.

So far the government's show of firmness does not appear to have intimidated the labor groups. On the contrary, it has resulted in redoubling the demand from Socialists and communists that the government resign.

An indication of labor's attitude was given in Valenciennes, where the executive committee of the Metal Workers' union ordered its 25,000 members to continue the strike started last week "indefinitly until the government's plan to lengthen the 40 hour week has been broken." This reversed the decision taken yesterday, when the metal workers were ordered back to work tomorrow pending the general strike Wednesday.

With passions mounting on both sides, many observers fear that Wednesday may prove to be a new "Feb. 6," with blood flowing in the streets as it did at the height of the Stavisky scandal of 1934. In that riot many persons were killed when mobs marched upon parliament in protest against frauds exposed in connection with the collapse of a municipal pawnshop headed by Serge Stavisky, friend of French political leaders.

Increased numbers of mobile guards, whose presence is a sure sign of stormy weather ahead, already are visible in the capital.

Call Railway Decree Illegal.

The leftists are particularly angry over the government's decree, which President Albert Lebrun signed last night, requisitioning the railway lines and placing 400,000 French railway workers under military orders.

This measure, which may be a prelude to a nation-wide militarization of strikers, is denounced by the leftists as illegal on the ground that such a decree must be approved by a council of ministers. No such council has been held.

Measures also have been taken by the government to assure the functioning of postal, telephone, and telegraph services, bus and subway lines, and to keep Paris supplied with water, gas, and light.

As a result of the strike situation, it is understood that the prospective visit to Paris this week of Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, has been called off.

DOCTOR AND 3 GET LIFE TERMS AS TORTURERS

Plea of Unwritten Law Ignored.

Olympia, Wash., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Kent W. Berry, 50 years old, and three other men were convicted today of the abduction and torture of Irving Baker, an automobile salesman. The jury, which found the defendants guilty of kidnaping and assault, fixed the penalty for all four at life imprisionment.

The state charged that Dr. Berry plotted the kidnaping after accusing Baker of raping his wife, 27 years old, following a party last July 4.

Baker and other defense witnesses denied the rape accusation and Judge John Wilson refused to permit the jury to consider the unwritten law as a defense.

Escape Death Penalty.

Convicted with Dr. Berry were William K. McAloon, a former town marshal; James Reddick, a taxicab driver, and Robert H. Smith, a dairy farmer, whom the physician persuaded to help him get revenge on Baker.

All were found guilty of kidnaping, an offense punishable by death under Washington state law unless the jury recommends life imprisionment. Dr. Berry, McAloon, and Reddick also were found guilty of first degree assault, for which the maximum punishment is 20 years in prison. Smith was convicted of second degree assault, a 10 year offense.

It was said that Smith might make an effective plea for mercy to the governor because he allegedly dissuaded Dr. Berry from emasculating Baker.

Doctor Weeps at Verdict.

Dr. Berry wept as he left the court room. He sought to argue with a woman juror, who was overheard saying to him: "You perjured yourself."

Mrs. Berry, who testified that Baker raped her, also wept.

The jury of eight men and four women deliberated ten hours. Judge Wilson said he would hear a motion for a new trial within two weeks. Pronouncement of sentences will await his disposition of that motion.

Baker, who is 37 years old and formerly was a coast guard officer, was forced from his home the night or Aug. 19 by two men who displayed a faked warant for his arrest.

Forced Into Automobile.

His wife, Susanne, stood by helplessly as one of the intruders produced a revolver and another shoved Baker, hatless and coatless, into an automobile.

He testified that the intruders, McAloon and Smith, held him in the back seat of the car while Reddick, who said he was hired as a chauffeur, drove to a place where Dr. Berry was waiting.

Berry entered the car and they proceeded to an abandoned gravel pit, Baker said.

Baker said he then was tied hand and foot and was dragged to the ground. He testified that Dr. Berry gegged him with a pair of women's slacks, lashed his bare back with the buckle end of a heavy belt, and tortured him with pliers.

Scorned Woman, Says Baker.

Baker denied that he had been intimate with Mrs. Berry and asserted she had made advances to him during the party and had invented the rape story after he had scorned her.

Mrs. Berry testified that her husband conceived the kidnap plan after he had unsuccessfully sought a warant for Baker's arrest on rape charges and after he had forced her to tell him the name of her attacker.

Dr. Berry admitted the kidnaping in a statement to police soon after his arrest but testified that he did not remember details of the torture episode.

Ince, Son of Film Pioneer, Killed in Motor Bike Race

Oakland, Calif., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Richard Ince, 23 years old, son of the late Thomas H. Ince, pioneer Hollywood film producer, was injured fatally today in a crash with two other motorcyclists in the 200-mile Pacific coast motorcycle championship race, won by Sam Arena of Watsonville. Young Ince was thrown headlong against a fence.

A. F. L. to Test Strength Today at Stockyards

A test to determine the relative strength of the American Federation of Labor and John L. Lewis' Congress of Industrial Organizations will be made in the Chicago stockyards today. The yards, closed a full week by a C. I. O. strike, are to be reopened with stockhandlers furnished by an A. F. of L. group, Stockhandlers union, No. 517.

Officials of the Union Stockyard and Transit company, against which the strike was directed, announced on Saturday their intention to operate. They said they were dealing with the men who want to work as individuals, not as an organization. The C. I. O. union of stockhandlers, No. 567, is the only official bargaining agent.

200 to Be on Hand.

James Rice, secretary of the A. F. of L. group, asserted that 200 of his members would be on hand. Normally the yards employ about 600 handlers, and the 200 will be sufficient to man only one shift daily. Some observers were doubtful that such a force could carry on regular operations.

The C. I. O. union, whose president is Benjamin Brown, has been picketing the yards entrances since the strike began, and their lines will be maintained. They will not be greatly augmented, union officials said. They depend on their power in the packing houses and the neutral attitude of commission merchants to keep sales from being made in the yards.

More Strikes Threatened.

If packers purchase cattle handled by A. F. of L. members the C. I. O. men threaten to call strikes against the firms, several of which already have contracts to employ only C. I. O. workers. As for the commission men, who suffered heavily during the tieup, they have warned shippers not to send meat animals here. This advice has not been rescinded.

Experienced stockmen believe that if the C. I. O. fails to win the strike, and operations are carried on without its men, prestige will be gained by the A. F. of L. A further prospect is the waning of the whole C. I. O. program in the packing industry.

Big Plant Is Target.

Apparently the Lewis organization is ready to use all its resources to prevent such a development. Van A. Bittner, chairman of the packing house workers' organizing committee, said yesterday that unless the strike is settled quickly a walkout may be called by his organization in at least twenty-five packing plants of Armour & Co.

This company was singled out for attack for two reasons. One is that the C. I. O. has a stronger hold among Armour employés than among the workers at any other major packing plant.

The A. F. of L. now is making a concerted drive for memberships in the packing houses. Its officers said yesterday that 700 Armour workers had been signed up in the last few days.

DIES SAYS NEW U.S. LAW APPLIES TO COMMUNISTS

Liable for Violating Registry Act.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Earl Browder and other officers of the communist party of the United States are liable to fines of $1,000 and imprisonment for two years for failure to register their party with the state department as the American agency of the communist International and the Russian soviet union.

Cordell Hull.

This is the burden of a letter, made public today, which Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, addressed yesterday to Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Mr. Dies also transmitted two volumes of the testimony before the committee from which he quoted to prove his charge that the communist party is violating the new law requiring registration of American agents of foreign governments, political parties, and other groups and institutions.

Bund Among Violators.

The chairman cited testimony showing that the German-American bund also is liable to punishment for failure to register as agent of the Nazi party of Germany. He suggested that Mr. Hull invoke the aid of the department of justice in enforcement of the act and in further investigation of a number of "front" organizations which the chairman believes equally subject to the law, though their relationship to foreign principals is disguised.

In this category he named:

The Workers' International relief.
North American committee to aid Spanish democracy.
Friends of the Abraham Lincoln brigade.
American Society for Technical Aid to Spanish Democracy.
International Workers order.
American Student union.
Young communist league.
Young Pioneers of America.
League for Industrial Democracy.
The Khaki Shirts, organized in 1933 by Art J. Smith in Philadelphia, and the Silver Shirts, with headquarters at Asheville, N. C.
The Italian Fascists and the American Fascists.
The American Aryan Folk association of Portland, Ore.
American guard, which has the swastika on its letterhead.
The American League of the Friends of New Germany, Portland, Ore.
The American National Socialist party.

Names "Front" Organizations.

"The evidence before our committee," wrote Mr. Dies, "shows clearly that the communist party of the United States is an agent of the communist Third International, which has its headquarters in Moscow. The evidence also indicates that certain 'front' organizations of the communist party, such as the League for Peace and Democracy, the International Labor Defence, the Civil Liberties union, and many others whose names will be found in our hearings, likewise are agents of the communist party. The evidence further indicates that the German-American bund is an agent of the Nazi party in Germany.

"For these reasons it is my belief that all of these organizations should be required to comply with this act or congress, and that in the event they fail to do so, they should be prosecuted under the penal section of the act.

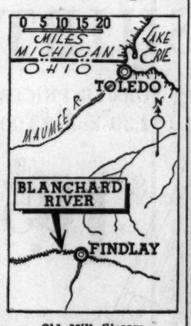
Members Join Parent Society.

"It was established before our committee, through reputable witnesses who submitted unimpeachable and voluminous evidence, that the communist party of the United States is a section of the communist [Third] International, which has its international headquarters in Moscow.

"It also was established, through witnesses who presented authentic

'OLD MILL STREAM' IS BEING MADE FIT TO WANDER BY AGAIN

Findlay, O., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The original "Old Mill Stream" is being made fit to wander "Down By" once again.



Old Mill Stream.

During the thirty years since Tell Taylor's ballad was written, the banks of the stream [the Blanchard river] have become overgrown with brush and its waters polluted. So it discouraged all romance and reverie.

Then officials took a hand, for the sake of sanitation. Débris is being moved, and next year Findlay residents will be able to picnic along its banks. Taylor died last spring.

EXPERT BLASTS A TIME HONORED SPEEDING ALIBI

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Policemen R. F. Baerman and J. E. Steele sped after an automobile they said was going seventy miles an hour, overtook it, and inquired: "Where's the fire?"

"I'm taking my wife to the hospital," said the motorist, Frank Burns, 34 years old. "She's going to have a baby."

Apologetic, the policemen followed Burns' car to the hospital. A physician, after examining the woman, came out and told the policemen that there must be some mistake, because she was not going to have a baby. The policemen then started in on Burns, who confessed that the woman was not his wife—that he made up the story as an alibi for speeding. Burns was booked for reckless driving.

It's a Rural Art: Beautifying the Cattle Nobility

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Other news of the International Live Stock exposition on page 5; pictures on back page.]

Those who make a profession of beautifying the human head don't know what work is. They've never tackled a 1,900 pound Shorthorn.

So observed Charley Napier, a herdsman at the International Live Stock exposition yesterday. He is here with eighteen prize Shorthorns from the Sni-A-Bar farm near Grain Valley, Mo., was slaving over the flanks of Golden Wreath 20th, a ton of mottled brown and white. The Wreath was having a marcel.

"Now Herefords," Mr. Napier commented, "are simple. They have naturally curly hair. And with an Aberdeen-Angus, all they need is a simple, long wave, but Shorthorns——. It looks easy, but it isn't."

Routine from Birth to Death.

For show animals, it seems, life is no quiet pastoral, with ruminations in a pale green field and nice pleasant mudholes to swish around in. It means a clean, straw bedded stall from birth until death, with a brief pasturage, for exercise only, at night—and the rest of his hours devoted to beauty culture.

Thus an Aberdeen-Angus, that great all-black model, never appears, summer or winter, at home or abroad, without a blanket. That's so his hair won't grow. If long, it detracts from his beautiful bovine lines. And a Hereford, the red one with white face, is never free of the curry comb. His hair is so curly it mats if not controled.

With them all life is a constant bath. This is no simple sponge bath, but a fine castile lather with gallons of warm water. Consequently the beauty parlors in the stockyards amphitheater are always crowded, with 6,000 show animals awaiting a turn.

Then the Work Begins.

After the bath the work really begins. While the hair is wet and steaming the herdsman combs it. Then he brushes it. Then he uses a marker, a round brush with steel teeth coiled like a spring, to imprint the marcel. The hair is brushed up again and again, first by a steel comb then with a thick brush, into loose, flat curls, with a deep wave along the spine. The tail is merely fluffed.

"Then," continued Charley, "you wait a day to oil her, to give gloss, but you spend that time scraping her horns and sanding them down and oiling them for the shine.

"You clean the hoofs twice a week and trim them twice a year. We're a little rougher than a manicurist. We just level off the hoofs.

8,000 Seek Jobs, but None Qualifies as a Santa Claus

Racine, Wis., Nov. 27.—[Special]—R. D. Scoon, head of the United States Employment office here, said today that there is a demand for a number of men to play Santa Claus this Christmas season but he is unable to find any one among the 8,000 persons registered at the employment office to fill such a job. To qualify, Scoon says, a Santa Claus must have a big smile, a reasonably big stomach, and must love children.

WITH 8 BURGLARS BAGGED, BROTHERS LET 9TH GET AWAY

Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—James and Albert Bullamore, brothers and storekeepers in the village of Somers, early today maintained their record of keeping their store burglarproof, even though they marred another record by letting a burglar get away.

Ten years ago the brothers—James is 79 and Albert 68—rigged up a burglar alarm system in their store. Whenever a thief would enter the store, an alarm would sound in the home of the brothers at the rear. Then the brothers would arm themselves, turn on flood lights inside and outside the store, and nab or shoot the intruder. In that way they bagged seven burglars, who later went to prison, and killed an eighth.

At 4 o'clock this morning the burglar alarm sounded. The Bullamores followed accepted procedure, arming themselves and turning on the lights. Only this time one of the brothers turned the lights on too soon, giving the thief a chance to get away. He fled empty handed. "That spoils our record of never letting one of those fellows get away," Albert complained later. "Well, we've still got one record," replied James. "We haven't yet lost a nickel to thieves."

evidence, particularly the communist 'Party Manual on Organization' and 'Milestones in the History of the Communist Party' in addition to other communist documents, that those joining the communist party of the U. S. A. not only join the communist party as a unit, but also as a section of the Third International. The following statement appears on the 1938 membership card of the communist party, originals of which were introduced as evidence before our committee:

"'The undersigned declares his adherence to the program and statutes of the communist International and of the communist party of the United States of America and agrees to submit to the discipline of the party and to engage actively in its work.'

Subsidized by Moscow.

"I believe that the evidence received by the committee, if submitted to any jury, will satisfy them that many of the 'front' organizations are under the control of the communist party of the United States of America, which in turn is controlled by the Third International. I believe it also can be shown that the communist party of the United States of America is subsidized indirectly by the Third International and the soviet union.

"In the case of the League for Peace and Democracy, which formerly was the League Against War and Fascism, we have the testimony of the first chairman to the effect that the league was formed on orders from Moscow; that it was set up simultaneously in all democratic countries.

"We have the undisputable evidence that many leading communists have taken an active part in the activities of the organization and have been identified with it as officers and directors."

FIGHT AGAINST JOINING UNION TO GET PWA JOBS

Decatur, Ill., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—WPA workers here are protesting against the payment of more than $6,000 in labor union initiation fees for the privilege of working on Decatur's $2,000,000 storm sewer and a $740,000 court house, both financed partly by PWA. Under PWA regulations only union labor may be used on the projects.

The International Hod Carriers and Common Laborers' union here has a membership of only 250, according to Business Agent Harry Meisenhelter, and nearly 500 men will be needed when the projects are under construction. This means that 250 laborers must pay initiation fees of $25 each to qualify for jobs under PWA.

The WPA workers say that rather than pay the union fee out of their $53 a month pay, they will refuse to leave their regular WPA jobs. The WPA men have formed a small "no dues" union under which they hope they may qualify for PWA jobs.

BANDITS TRACED THROUGH AUTO NUMBER; SEIZED

Early Friday they robbed Daniel Shellhase, 1505 North Kildare avenue, of $16. He took down their automobile license number. Later Policemen Harry Haight and Walter Brightmore of the Fillmore street station traced it to John [Scotty] Kissane, 19 years old, 3518 Congress street. He confessed and as a result Haight, a Tribune Hero award winner, and Brightmore seized Frank [Knife] Arelli, 19, of 3133 Polk street, and August Chiodo, also 19, of 2054 Van Buren street.

Police said the arrests solved the robbery early Friday of Mrs. Leota Anderson, 38, of 1225 Adams street, widowed mother of three small children. She earned $4 as a dishwasher Thanksgiving, and lost it to the bandits in front of her home. The money was to have been used for milk for her children. She identified Kissane.

JAPS BUILD FORTS AND AIRFIELDS TO RETAIN SHANGHAI

Viewed as Move to Expel Foreign Interests.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 28 [Monday]—(AP)—Japanese construction of a vast military base near Woosung, at the mouth of the Whangpoo river downstream from Shanghai, added today to foreign apprehension over Japan's future plans in China.

Foreign observers said Japanese military authorities were constructing a gigantic airfield two miles from Shanghai's North station. They said about 30,000 Chinese laborers were laying a carpet of crushed bricks over the marshy ground and probably would have the field completed within three months.

It was said squadrons of bombers and planes for the newly established air mail service to Tokio already were quartered on finished parts of the field.

Emplacements for Cannon.

All foreigners have been barred from Woosung, where, besides another airfield, it was reported that the Japanese were rebuilding the devastated town into a military defense base with nearby barracks to accommodate 20,000 men and emplacements heavy enough for twelve-inch cannon.

The Japanese themselves report that work has begun on a vast industrial and shipping zone along the river between Shanghai and Woosung.

Foreigners expressed fear that such a development might enable Japan, if she desired, to squeeze out all foreign interests in Shanghai.

Chinese Recapture Town.

Along the battle lines, Chinese declared they had recaptured Yingcheng, fifty miles northwest of Hankow, in vigorous counter attacks while still blocking the Japanese advance south from the former provisional capital.

Japan's army has dug in at Chikiapu and Wukiang-kiao, about fifteen miles southeast of Yochow on the Canton-Hankow railroad, Chinese declared, and another column also has been stopped in the mountains along the border of Hupeh and Honan provinces.

Japanese, however, struck again through the air. Heavy damages and casualties were reported in air raids on Hengyang, which Japanese warplanes bombed three times, Ichang and the Chekiang province town of Chuki.

Shells Hit British Territory.

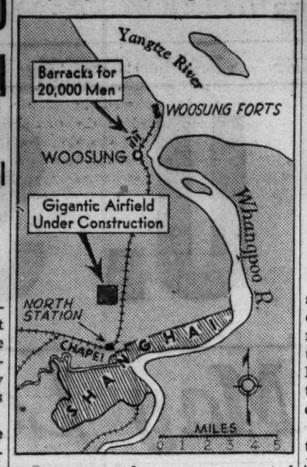
HONGKONG, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Japanese shells fell inside British territory and Chinese troops fired on a British border garrison today as Japanese continued a mopping up process at the very edge of this British colony. Japanese captured the village of Shumchun, just over the British frontier on the Kowloon-Canton railway. Shells which fell into British territory during the operation caused no damage.

WOMAN, 91, DIES OF FALL.

Mrs. Goldie Osman, 91 years old, died yesterday in the County hospital of injuries suffered in a fall ten days ago in her home at 3306 Division street. Two sons and eleven grandchildren survive.

Japanese Dig In

(Story in adjoining column.)



Japanese today were reported building new air fields at Shanghai and Woosung and new forts at Woosung to insure a permanent hold on the Shanghai area. Foreign interests feared further suppression of free trade.

FOOD DELIVERED TO 100 HUNTERS CAUGHT IN SNOW

Bangor, Me., Nov. 28 [Monday].—(AP)—State police received word early today a unit of the rescue forces battling through heavy snow to the relief of 100 isolated hunters and CCC youths near Aurora had reached its objective. A truck crew also dug its way through huge drifts to deliver food and supplies to 35 hunters at Mopang lake in Washington county.

Among the hunters are three naval officers from the Portsmouth navy yard—Capt. H. R. Greenlee, Lieutenant Commander Arthur Folz, and Lieut. William Anderson Jr.

Word came by radio from the main body of the rescue party that a snow plow followed by several army trucks was ten miles east of Aurora on its way to Beddington and Eagle Lake, where several women were among an isolated group.

Chinese Capital Bans Red Dresses—Air Raid Caution

SHANGHAI, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Japanese air raids have caused the first change in Chinese fashions in Chungking, China's new provisional capital, in a century. As an air raid precaution women have been forbidden to wear their favorite color for gowns and jackets—bright red. Coolies also have been compelled to remove their traditional white headgear.

ROB LIQUOR STORE CLERK.

Herbert Rosen, 1344 Lunt avenue, clerk in the liquor store at 4062 Lincoln avenue, was robbed of $60 and cigarets valued at $100 by three gunmen who entered the store early today.

JAPAN JOINS NAZI DRIVE ON JEWS; BARS MUSICIANS

Hitler's Paper Lists 102 Semitic Millionaires.

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—(AP)—A reliable source in Vienna today said an undisclosed number of Austrian Jewish musicians who had been engaged to teach at the music conservatory in Kobe, Japan, suddenly had their contracts annulled by the Japanese government.

The disclosure followed by two days the signing in Tokio of a German-Japanese accord on cultural coöperation on the anniversary of the Japanese-German-Italian anti-communist pact.

Polish Jews Rearrested.

In Germany the problem of havens for Jews still was pressing. One group of Polish Jews, who had been released from custody on the understanding that they would leave the country, were arrested again because Poland refused to admit them. Some young Jews left for Liberia.

The process of erasing all traces of Jewish influence continued with the removal of signs from eighty Vienna streets named for Jews as well as of statuary and other commemorations of once honored Jews.

Among those of whom memory is to be eradicated were Joseph von Sonnenfels, who was responsible for the abolition of torture as a method of police investigation, and Siegfried Marcus, Austrian automobile inventor. A bust of a member of the Rothschild banking family was taken down from a Vienna railroad station.

Tabulate Wealth of Jews.

A tabulation of Jews' wealth, published in the Vienna edition of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's own newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, set it at about 8,000,000,000 marks [$3,200,000,000] for all Germany. Of this, 2,295,000,000 marks [$918,000,000] was said to be owned in Austria, indicating that, per capita, Austrian Jews were about three times as wealthy as those in the rest of Greater Germany.

Voelkischer Beobachter said 102 Austrian Jews were millionaires. The largest individual Jewish fortune, it said, was 26,000,000 marks [about $10,000,000] so that after paying the 20 per cent assessment for the assassination of Ernst von Rath, who was killed in Paris by a Polish Jew, its owner would have more than 20,000,000 marks [$8,000,000] left.

Bulgarians Barred from Streets to Avert Riots

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The nineteenth anniversary of the post-war treaty of Neuilly, which took away part of Bulgaria's territory, passed without incident today. Police enforced strict measures against recurrence of demonstrations for revision of the pact. All citizens were forbidden to appear on the streets without a special permit following revisionist demonstrations yesterday in which one persons was killed and a number injured.

Envoys to Confer

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Hugh Wilson (left), ambassador to Germany, and William Phillips, ambassador to Italy (right), as they arrived in Atlanta, Ga., en route to Warm Springs to confer with President Roosevelt.

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt listened tonight to first hand reports of minority persecutions in Germany and Italy. He received the reports in his white cottage on Pine mountain from Hugh R. Wilson, American ambassador to Germany, and William Phillips, former undersecretary of state and now ambassador to Italy.

The President was in conference with the two envoys far into the night as he explored all phases of the conflict between Democracies and totalitarian states.

Before the conference the President sent word to newspaper men that it would be concerned not only with the persecution of Jews in the two nations in question, but also with persecuted minorities throughout the world.

CARDINALS TO BE PLAIN 'MISTER' TO NAZIS HEREAFTER

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—(AP)—It will be proper for cardinals to be addressed in Germany hereafter as plain "Herr Cardinal" [Mr. Cardinal] under a decree issued today by Hans Kerrl, minister of public worship.

The decree followed an earlier order abolishing such old, ceremonious modes of address as "most nobly born sir" in correspondence between officials.

Even new styles, such as "Your Eminence" or "Your Grace" or "Your Excellency" are swept into limbo and replaced by just "Herr Cardinal" or "Herr Archbishop" under the new decree.

REBEL NAVY MAPS WINTER WAR ON LOYALIST PORTS

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Nov. 27.—(AP)—Spanish insurgents indicated today that systematic attacks on strategic government ports would be Generalissimo Francisco Franco's main weapons during the coming months when winter snows cover the front lines.

Minorca, indicated by arrow, which rebel navy may attack.

Attacks yesterday along the northeast Mediterranean seaboard, they said, were a "sample" of the regular pounding Franco's navy plans to give government ports during the winter.

Insurgent naval bases on the northwest coast were reported busy arming all available merchant craft and fishing boats with the heaviest guns they can carry. Such vessels will be auxiliaries to the war fleet now based at Mallorca.

One insurgent report, however, indicated that Franco might try again to seize Minorca, the lone government stronghold in the Balearics.

The little island has become vulnerable to attack, since Franco easily can transfer troops from the mainland to the island.

CHARGES BERLIN SENDS ORDERS TO ECUADOR BANKS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Nov. 27.—Local banks have been instructed by German banks to stabilize the price of aski marks, the newspaper Universo said today. It added that the "German banks used the most peremptory terms in their latest communication and referred to previous instructions sent several months ago." Recently Eduardo Puig Arosamena, local business man, charged in congress that Germany has conquered Ecuador without firing a shot. "The use of aski marks," he added, "has been converted into an abuse." He also attacked trade relations with Japan, which sells a great quantity of cheap goods here and buys almost nothing.

POLISH SOLDIER SLAIN BY CZECHS IN FRONTIER FEUD

Warsaw Army Takes Over Ceded Territory.

WARSAW, Nov. 27.—(AP)—A Polish army major was reported killed and a noncommissioned officer seriously wounded today when Polish troops moved into the last area—about twenty square miles in the valleys of the Carpathian mountains—of the territory ceded to Poland by Czechoslovakia on Nov. 1.

Completion of occupation of the annexed territory had been scheduled for Dec. 1. Poland, however, demanded and received approval of earlier action after an alleged attack in Czechoslovakia on a Polish demarcation commission.

An official communique said that a Maj. Rago was killed and the noncommissioned officer wounded during a conference between Czech and Polish officers.

Shots from Unstated Source.

The communique said the conference was arranged when the advancing Polish troops encountered a detail of Czech trops and that the shots were fired from an unstated source as the officers talked.

Casimir Pappee, Polish minister to Prague, registered an immediate protest and demanded satisfaction, the communique added. Czech authorities were said to have expressed regret and ordered an investigation.

Another communique said that during occupation of the Czaszca district last Friday two Polish soldiers were killed and a number wounded in a clash with Czech troops.

The total area which Poland now has taken through a separate settlement with Czechoslovakia after the Munich agreement includes a little more than 400 square miles in Teschen, Silesia, and Czaszca.

Unprepared for Entry.

PRAGUE, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Serious incidents which took place when Warsaw's troops occupied ceded Czechoslovak territory were reported here to have occurred because Czech troops were unprepared for the entry of the Poles and were unable to withdraw quickly enough across the mountainous terrain.

Slovaks insisted that the Poles not only crossed the demarcation line set in negotiations for occupation of autonomous Slovakian territory, but also crossed the border into Czech territory proper.

The incident involving Polish and Czech troops was reported to have occurred in the village of Smercovka, which Czechs said was in their territory as shown by the map of the demarcation commission.

RUTHENIA EXPELS REFUGEES FROM HUNGARIAN AREA

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The autonomous government of Ruthenia [sub-Carpathian Russia] has expelled a large number of citizens of Czechoslovakia, it was officially announced here today. They were returned to the new Hungarian border. The exact number of those deported was not given. Almost all were Jews who fled into Ruthenia from districts awarded Hungary by German-Italian arbitration at Vienna on Nov. 2. Hungarian border guards refused to admit the refugees and left them in a "no man's land" along the border where they were unable to move either way.

HUNGARY AGAIN CALLS ON IMREDI TO HEAD CABINET

BUDAPEST, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Bela Imredi was reappointed today to the premiership from which he resigned last Wednesday in the face of dissatisfaction over his failure to obtain for Hungary the eastern part of Czechoslovakia.

He was instructed to resume his functions as premier by Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary. Horthy in effect reconsidered his acceptance of Imredi's resignation and announced it would be disregarded. Imredi and his entire cabinet quit after the government had been voted down on a test ballot, 115 to 95, in the lower house of parliament.

Dissatisfied National unity deputies have been clamoring for Czechoslovakia to cede eastern territory to Hungary so the latter could obtain a common frontier with Poland, an aim opposed by Germany.

3 Killed, 40 Hurt by Bomb Blast in Rumanian Theater

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Private dispatches reaching here today said three persons were killed and upwards of forty injured by a bomb explosion in a theater at Temisoara [Temesvar], in the Banat region, where there have been political disturbances and anti-Semitic demonstrations recently. Authorities investigated the possibility that terrorism inspired by the illegal Fascist Iron Guard was responsible.

WARSAW PRESS WHOOPS UP NEW LOVE FOR SOVIET

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 27.—Government newspapers in Warsaw today carried pictures of Josef Stalin and Maxim Litvinov, soviet dictator and foreign commissar, on their front pages for the first time in years and published flattering articles about Russia.

This sudden change of Warsaw policy followed further revelations by Polish officials of steps taken by Poland and Russia to curb Germany's ambition to create an independent Ukrainian state. The presence of German officers in Ruthenia [sub-Carpathian Russia], the autonomous eastern section of Czechoslovakia, to organize a Ukrainian army is considered in Warsaw to be an unfriendly act.

Each Makes Concessions.

A friendly understanding has been achieved between the Polish and soviet governments by each nation making important concessions. In return for Moscow's promise to suppress communist agitation in Poland, the Polish government has promised to prevent Warsaw from continuing to be the center of dissemination of news unfavorable to Russia.

Moscow also has agreed to open negotiations for formation of a press entente with Poland. Hereafter the censorship of both countries will seek to prevent unfavorable news about the other from appearing in publications under their jurisdictions. Poland has signed such a censorship agreement with Germany, Rumania, Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia.

Warsaw officials said Moscow has agreed to appoint a new ambassador to Poland to replace Jacob H. Davpian, who was recalled and disappeared in October, 1937.

Stabilizes Polish Frontiers.

The new understanding between Litvinov and the Polish ambassador stabilizes the present soviet-Polish frontier and specifies that negotiations for a new trade agreement will be opened immediately.

Relations between Moscow and Warsaw have been unpleasant since Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, signed a ten year pact of nonaggression and friendship with Germany in the spring of 1934. Moscow accused Poland of being a military ally of Germany and alleged that Beck was plotting with Germany to attack the soviet Ukraine.

The friendly understanding between Warsaw and Moscow, it is learned, was due to advances made only a few days ago by Col. Beck. His decision to negotiate with Moscow was formed immediately after Hans von Moltke, German ambassador, visited him last Tuesday and warned that Poland must desist from her plans to achieve a united frontier with Hungary through annexation of Ruthenia.

POLAND ORDERS ALL B'NAI B'RITH PROPERTY SEIZED

WARSAW, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Polish government today ordered confiscation of all property of the Jewish organization, B'nai B'rith. The order was based on a decree dated Nov. 22 banning Free Masonry in Poland. Jewish circles, however, said virtually nothing would be confiscated as the B'nai B'rith never owned important property and all funds collected immediately were turned over to charitable organizations.

OSWALD MOSLEY WEDS SECRETLY; HITLER WITNESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—Nazi circles today confirmed reports that Reichsfuehrer Hitler acted as official witness at the second wedding of Sir Oswald Mosley, head of the British Union of Fascists. Sir Oswald's first wife, granddaughter of the late Levi Z. Leiter, pioneer Chicago merchant, died in 1933.

Sir Oswald's bride was Diana Mitford, sister of Unity and Verity Mitford, English girls who are known for their love of everything Nazi. The wedding took place in Munich on Dec. 4, 1937. All participants were ordered to keep it quiet.

The mayor of Munich officiated. Hitler's secretary of state, Hans Heinrich Lammers, also was a witness. The ceremony was performed in the "Fuehrer haus," and the documents were filed in Munich's secret archives.

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—Chen Chieh, new Chinese ambassador to Germany, is having trouble in obtaining a formal Nazi welcome to start his diplomatic mission.

Three times Chen Chieh has asked for an audience with Reichsfuehrer Hitler. Each time he was refused because the foreign office did not like the text of the address he had prepared for the occasion. If he changes the text to suit the Nazi wishes, Chen Chieh may be allowed to see the Fuehrer and present his credentials.

WAR SECRETARY URGES INCREASE IN U. S. FORCES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—The grave deficiencies in trained personnel and equipment of the army for adequate defense of the United States, recently outlined in dispatches to THE TRIBUNE, were admitted in the annual report of Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, made public today.

While dwelling upon the progress made in the last five years in the reorganization and reëquipment of the army and the formulation of plans to step up production of amry materiel by private industry in time of war, the secretary concurred in the report of Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staf, which detailed the deficiencies in personnel, infantry, and artillery arms and aircraft.

"I would be remiss," said Woodring, "did I leave the impression that we now have a completely modernized and thoroughly efficient defensive establishment. There remain deficiencies in organization, equipment, and personnel which must be corrected before we can be assured of maintenance of a military force fully adequate for our defensive needs."

Force of 400,000 Provided.

Under the existing program of land defense, known as the "protective mobilization plan of 1937," the country would rely upon an initial force of 400,000 men to repel an enemy. This force is composed of the following:

Regular army, 165,000.
National Guard, 205,000.
Enlisted reserve, 30,000.

The program calls for the expansion of this initial protective force upon the outbreak of war into as large an army of the United States as the situation might demand.

"We must recognize," said Secretary Woodring, "that our initial protective force, less than half of which comprises full time personnel of the regular army scattered throughout the continental United States and in our outlying territories, is a very small foundation upon which we may find it necessary to erect a towering wartime edifice. It follows that it must be a strong foundation, a perfect foundation, a foundation upon which we are at all times promptly and fully prepared to build any larger defensive structure deemed essential.

Canal Defenses Urged.

"The units garrisoning our outlying defenses are components of that initial protective force. Reinforcement of those garrisons in the event of a sudden war might prove of extreme difficulty if not an impossibility.

"Sudden war would find the troops in the Pan-American canal department in an especially precarious situation. The defenses of the Pan-American canal must be strengthened. All locks and dams on that vital waterway must be made bombproof.

"The possibility of sabotage by crews of ships transiting the canal must be completely eliminated. We must greatly augment our air forces and our anti-aircraft artillery installation in the Pan-American Canal Zone. The Panama canal must be made impregnable.

Provide for Critical Items.

"I also urgently recommend that early provision be made for the critical items with which to equip those units which, in the event of war, will follow the initial protective force into the field. We place upon the initial protective force and the larger national armies subsequently to be raised grave responsibilities. We must give them the means to accomplish the wartime mission imposed upon them by the protective mobilization plan."

The secretary was at pains to point out that the army program is based upon defense of America from an invader, not upon attack on any other nation.

"In our mobilization planning and our military preparations," he said, "we contemplate no aggression against any power on earth. We visualize only the possible necessity for army defense of our own domains. The title 'protective mobilization plan' is fully indicative of our intent."

The 1937 mobilization plan replaced a program that was modeled upon the conditions prevailing during the world war, a plan that Woodring pronounced wholly impracticable, particularly with reference to the procurement of supplies upon the outbreak of war.

"Not since the war of 1812," said the secretary, "has a foreign invader set foot upon our soil. We are therefore too prone, I believe, to visualize preparation for a future war in the light of our preparation for war in 1917.

Industry No Longer Geared Up.

"We must not be deluded by recollection of huge cantonments where divisions had opportunity to undergo training for several months before engaging in combat. We cannot have any assurance that the military situation will permit the establishment of training centers where potential commissioned personnel may undergo instruction for comparatively long periods.

"Upon our entrance into the world war American industry, by reason of wartime productive activities since 1914, was geared up, at least partially, to meet our own American wartime requirements. We cannot expect in the future immediate overnight transformation of American industry from a peacetime to a wartime basis.

"In a defensive situation we can place no dependence upon allied forces holding the battle lines while we make belated preparations for mobilization of personnel and industry.

Nation's Army

(Story in adjoining column.)

This chart shows the strength of the "initial army" on which the United States would depend for defense under the "protective mobilization plan of 1937," and how the total is divided.

POPE ASTONISHES 400 PILGRIMS BY MAKING A SPEECH

(Radiophoto on back page.)

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI. astonished 400 Hungarian pilgrims today by talking to them for ten minutes after he had seated himself unaided on the papal throne.

One of the pilgrims described the pontiff, who collapsed Friday morning with a heart attack, as "very pale, but he appeared the master of his strength and unhesitating in his motions." The pope is 81 years old.

Bothered by Asthma.

Doctors indicated the pontiff passed a calm night and that he arose from his bed this morning to undertake a strength-taxing schedule of audiences which reached a climax in his appearance before the Hungarians.

In the afternoon he went to bed for about two hours, but his asthma bothered him, members of his household said, and he arose to sit in an armchair until 6 p. m.

A Vatican news service said he then went to a place in the official apartment where, from behind a screen, he could hear special sermons preached by cardinals at the annual spiritual exercises of the papal court. The service ended at 7:45 p. m. and the pontiff retired for the night.

Thanks Pilgrims for Visit.

Pope Pius made no reference to his health in his address to the pilgrims. Speaking in a clear voice, he thanked them for having come to see him.

The pontiff was carried to the consistory hall in his portable chair, which was placed near the throne.

He was aided from the chair, but then motioned the assistants away. He mounted the throne alone.

At the close of the audience he descended from the throne alone, walked to his chair and was helped into it.

WEDDING GAYETY ENDS IN BATTLE; FIREMAN IS HURT

An Evanston city fireman was critically injured last night in a free for all fist fight at a wedding reception in the suburb. He is Earl Anderson, 33 years old, 115 Clyde avenue. He is in St. Francis hospital, suffering from a skull fracture.

The reception was being held in the Swedish club, 1411 Sherman avenue. The newlyweds were Theodore Thompson, 722 Reba place, an Evanston fireman, and the former Miss Carol Grosshofer, of 4020 North Marmora avenue, Chicago.

The fight broke out suddenly in the clubroom, and a dozen men were soon engaged in it. Fireman Anderson fell down a flight of stairs into the basement. Evanston police were called, and took a score of witnesses, including the bridegroom and bride, to the station for questioning. One witness, Robert Bohnich, 32, of 6334 North Melvina avenue, asserted that Anderson fell and injured himself when he landed a punch and lost his balance. The punch was aimed at Bohnich, according to the latter's story.

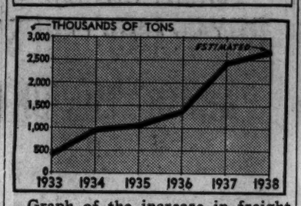
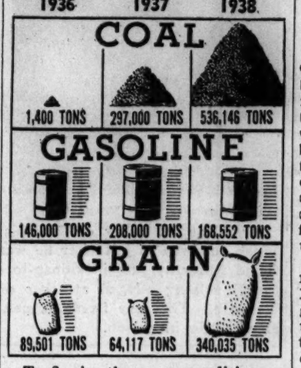
Waterway Booms



Graph of the increase in freight tonnage carried on the Illinois waterway in recent years.



Trafic in three commodities on Illinois waterway for first eight months in the last three years.

War department engineers are predicting a new freight trafic record for the Illinois waterway this year on the basis of large increases in shipments of grain and coal.

Capt. S. N. Karrick, United States divisional engineer for the Chicago district, expects the trafic over the Chicago Sanitary and Ship canal, that section of the waterway between Lockport and Damen avenue, to reach 2,750,000 tons. This would be 10 per cent over 1937 and double the amount carried in 1936.

Shipments of coal in the first eight months of the year totaled 536,146 tons, or 80 per cent more than the corresponding period in 1937. The grain shipments increased from 64,117 tons in the first eight months of 1937 to 340,035 tons in the 1938 period. The gasoline shipments, in comparative periods, fell off from 208,000 tons in 1937 to 168,552 this year.

Chamberlain and Mussolini to Confer Late in January

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Daily Mail said today that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain expects to visit Rome at the end of January for a personal conference with Premier Benito Mussolini. The meeting with the Italian premier, the paper said, would be part of a Mediterranean holiday for the prime minister and afford opportunity for talking over Anglo-Italian interests in that sea.

G.O.P. TO CANVASS POSSIBILITIES FOR MAYOR TODAY

Dewey and Judge Nelson Are Mentioned.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Action on the selection of mayoralty candidates is expected today from the Republican city central committee. But what it will be even the best informed of the fifty ward committeemen constituting the committee refused yesterday to conjecture.

Chas. S. Dewey.

The same committee met last Monday. After a general chip-on-the-shoulder attitude had been disclosed it recessed for a week's consideration of the task of working out a program for the municipal primaries of Feb. 28. At the first post-election meeting there was no call for names of mayoralty possibilities. That item is on the schedule this time.

Another important question is whether the organization will back a court battle to erase on a city-wide basis the ruling of the election board that permitted about 100,000 Republicans to vote in the Democratic primary last April. If the board is permitted to stand by that ruling those 100,000 will be barred from voting in the Republican mayoralty primary three months hence.

Mention Dewey and Nelson.

Two names, it is believed, will be certain of presentation if the committee goes ahead with the consideration of available mayoralty timber. A week ago, Committeeman James B. Waller [43d] informally mentioned the name of Charles S. Dewey, who attracted wide attention by the race he put up for congress in the 9th district. Waller has said he will present Dewey's name formally at the first opportunity. Dewey is a resident of his ward.

It is also believed that the name of Judge Oscar F. Nelson of the Superior court will be presented by Max Landesman, committeeman of his ward, the 46th, and possibly by other friends of Judge Nelson who knew him as an active leader of the committee for several years before he was elected to the bench.

There has been no definite indication that either of these men will become a candidate.

Night Meeting Also Called.

There is some likelihood, it is said, that other names will be presented at an unofficial meeting in the Capitol building this evening. Former Ald. Waller, who called the meeting, threw the doors open to all comers, but what occurs there will not have any bearing on the city central committee's action.

The question of the election board's ruling permitting a change of party allegiance last April was thrown into a tangle last fall by a ruling by Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski of the Circuit court in a nomination contest affecting only the 13th senatorial district. In that case the court held there had been no legal nominations of Democratic candidates for state representative because 100,000 Republicans had been allowed to vote in the Democratic primary.

On this legal foundation, it is contended, it would be possible through some form of court proceedings to release 100,000 voters from the Democratic allegiance they took on last April and free them so that they can rejoin the Republican party on Feb. 28.

Bandit Flees Without His $5 After Shooting Grocer

An attempted robbery on the south side cost a Negro bandit $5 last night and sent one of his intended victims to the Woodlawn hospital with a bullet wound. The robber went into Joseph Losinsky's grocery at 510 East 61st street, and ordered a quantity of cheese. He handed a $5 bill to Mrs. Sadie Losinsky, the store owner's wife. As she began to make change, the robber drew a gun. Mrs. Losinsky screamed, and her husband ran in from a back room. The Negro fired at him, striking him in the arm, and then fled, leaving his $5 behind.

GRAIN GROWING BROTHERS MOVE INTO KING ROW

Best Wheat, Oats from Same Canadian Farm.

Two Canadian brothers, who help operate a 320 acre farm in the Peace river valley of Alberta, yesterday proved they are the champion wheat and oats growers of North America. Their grains were adjudged the best offered in competition at the International Live Stock Exposition.

J. Lloyd Rigby, who is 23 years old, took the wheat trophy. His sample bushel, of the Reward variety, weighed 67½ pounds. The normal weight of wheat is 60 pounds to the bushel. Reward is a red spring wheat developed in the Canadian government experiment stations.

Too Busy to Attend.

The oats king is W. Justyn Rigby, 22 years old. He offered the judges a sample of the Victory variety. The new champions were too busy with their farm work to attend the exposition. It was recalled that Canadians have won sixteen of the last nineteen grand championships in wheat. This was the first time, however, that brothers have doubled in wheat and oats.

The reserve wheat championship went to R. P. Robbins of Shaunavon, Sask. Herman Trelle, a neighbor of the Rigby brothers, and himself a four time wheat champion, finished second to Lloyd. He exhibited a sample of the Reward variety.

More Than 50,000 Attend.

More than 50,000 persons crowded into the International amphitheater at the stockyards to view the 11,000 prize animals and farm products brought in from all sections of the United States and Canada. It was a happy throng and strong in its admiration of the sleek and glistening cattle, hogs, sheep, and horses.

In the stock judging ring, teams from agricultural colleges vied for prizes. The collegiate judging contest, for the first time in stock show history, brought a tie for first place. The five man teams of the Kansas and Iowa agricultural colleges each scored 4,408 points out of a possible 5,000. The Nebraska contingent was third and Ohio fourth. Twenty-one teams competed.

A bronze trophy, a representation of a prize bull, is offered by the Union Stock Yards and Transit company to the collegians. To acquire possession permanently, it must be won three times. Kansas, through the tie, became a permanent possessor, and Iowa now has two legs up on another.

Iowan's Score Is Highest.

Jacob Stimson of the Iowa team was the individual judging champion. He scored 918 points out of a possible 1,000. He is a junior at Iowa state, a practical farmer, and is majoring in animal husbandry.

A team from the Nebraska agricultural college won first place in the hay and grain judging contest, scoring 4,138 points of a possible 4,500. North Carolina's representatives were second, Oklahoma's third, and Michigan's fourth.

Another Canadian victory was registered when Hugh Jeffrey of Whitby, Ont., took the champion's ribbon for the best sample of soy beans. Also, the field bean championship went to Albert C. Gohn of Emo, Ont.

The University of Illinois took first place as owner of the grand champion fleece animal a Rambouillet ram. The fleece weighed about 25 pounds. Second honors went to King Brothers, ranchers of Laramie, Wyo., represented by a Corriedale ewe.

Yesterday was the second day of the exposition. It will continue through the week.

BOY, 3, KILLED BY TRUCK.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Marvin Remington, 3 years old, was killed today by a county highway department truck when he ran across a street. Police said Gene Russell, driver of the truck, was not to blame.

CROWDS MARVEL AT SHOW'S HUGE DRAFT HORSES

[News of the horse show on page 19.]

Among the animals attracting almost universal attention at the International Live Stock exposition are the draft horses. They are big fellows, built for power rather than speed. Among the popular breeds are:

Percheron—So called from its origin in the district of La Perche, France. Sometimes known as Norman Percheron. The usual colors are dapple gray and black. The breed has been used in America for many years.

Shire—Developed in the Shire counties in the heart of England. Shires are often of huge stature, standing more than 17 hands [a hand is 4 inches], and weigh up to 2,200 pounds.

Clydesdale—A Scottish breed, usually not quite so large as the Shires. It is noted for symmetry, activity, strength, and endurance.

Suffolk Punch—Named for an English county that produced the type. The Suffolk has a heavy body, but lighter legs than the Shire and Clydesdale. It sometimes reaches 2,000 pounds weight.

Belgian—A native of the low countries of Europe. This breed has a heavy, compact, deep body and especially well developed hindquarters. The usual colors are roan and chestnut.

JOLIET POLICE START HUNT FOR 3 MARKED MEN

Joliet police are confident that a bit of spontaneous surrealist painting will enable them to capture the three young holdup men who invaded the Musician's union clubrooms in the suburb yesterday.

The trio met Anton Arena, caretaker of the club, and his wife, Vera, in the third floor clubrooms at 109 North Chicago street. One man said it was a stickup. Arena lifted his hands. Then he picked up the robber No. 1 and hurled him downstairs.

Mrs. Arena seized another bandit's necktie and choked him until a punch in the nose convinced her woman's place is not in fights. The puncher and his companion dashed down the stairs. As they passed a painter who was at work in the hall on the second floor daubed the crew with rapid slaps of his brush. The men escaped by running into an alley.

Art Lovers Award Prize to F. J. Waugh Fifth Time

Pittsburgh, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Frederick J. Waugh, 77 year old artist from Provincetown, Mass., today won the popular prize in the 1938 Carnegie International exhibition with his "Pounding Surf" painting. It was the fifth time in succession that Waugh's marine paintings had received the $200 award. Artists from six nations participated this year. Votes of visitors decided the winner.

MONTANA GIRL, OKLAHOMA BOY WIN 4-H CROWNS

Excel in Achievements; Iowa Youth Scores.

A Montana girl and an Oklahoma boy won the national achievement contest of the 4-H congress last night. The congress is held in connection with the International Live Stock show. An Iowa boy won the 4-H national meat animal contest.

The achievement winners are Miss Katherine Sire, 18 years old, of Belt, Mont., and Lloyd Hawkins, also 18, of Foss, Okla. They each receive a $300 college scholarship and a chest of silver presented in the name of President Roosevelt.

She Kept Real Busy.

Miss Sire's record of achievement: She canned 6,632 pints of food, prepared 1,052 meals and 736 dishes, entered 21 judging contests, modeled 23 times in dresses she sewed, made forty exhibits at various shows, held 14 offices in her local 4-H club, served two terms as vice president of the county club, supervised 35 club members, participated in 27 demonstrations, assembled a complete college wardrobe, and, during the last six years, made 148 garments. The value placed on her club work is $2,253.

Young Hawkins held 11 offices in his local club, was county club president, was vice president of the Washita County Live Stock Improvement association, was a 4-H adviser for a national magazine, served as a delegate to the national 4-H convention, supervised 445 club boys, gave 26 demonstrations, coached 34 more, gave 37 talks on 4-H, led five state sings, and inaugurated new, approved practices on his home farm. He made a profit of $1,988 on his projects.

Four Alternates Named.

Alternates in the national achievement contests were Agnes McCulloch, of Scottsburg, Ind., and Dorothy L. Lippert, of Bertha, Minn., Harold Rogers, of Petersburg, Ill., and Henry Amsler of Rensselaer, Ind.

The Iowa boy who won the meat animal contest was Myron A. Johnson, 20, of Boone. In his projects he handled 18 baby beeves, 50 sheep, eight sows and litters, and 11 acres of corn. He made 112 entries at county and state fairs, and won $411 in prizes and nine championships. He participated in 15 judging and six other contests with highest honors. His projects returned him $3,641. He served his club as president for three years. His victory prizes are a $300 scholarship and a trip, with expenses paid, to the current club congress.

SECOND DAIRY SELLING MILK IN PAPER CARTONS

Borden-Wieland Dairy company yesterday began distribution of milk in paper containers through a few suburban stores. Today Borden and the Bowman Dairy company will start general sales of milk in paraffin-paper cartons to meet the competition of the Dean Milk company, which began using paper containers Friday. Milk in paper bottles is being sent into thirty-two suburban communities at the regular price of 10 cents a quart [with no deposit]. Board of health milk regulations bar paper containers from Chicago.

Promoted

Miss Florence Pond (left) and Miss Ruth Flekke, stewardesses named to new posts by air line.

Two girls from small towns, one a blonde, the other a brunette, who made good in air transport, were rewarded yesterday with promotions. Both have been flying five years, having over 700,000 miles in the air, almost all between Chicago and New York. They are Miss Florence Pond and Miss Ruth Flekke, stewardesses for United Air Lines. Miss Flekke was named assistant chief stewardess, eastern division, and Miss Pond in charge of the stewardess training and post graduate school. Both will be based in Chicago.

Miss Flekke is a native of Mondovi, Wis. She is a graduate of Lutheran Deaconess hospital in Chicago. Miss Pond comes from Arkansas City, Kas., and had her nursing training in Kansas City.

2 HELPING HANDS CLEAN UP IN THE CLOAKROOM

Everybody marveled at the industry of the two strangers Thursday evening at the community fund ball given by the Argo-Summit Lions club.

When the uninvited guests marched into St. Blase hall at 61st street and 74th avenue each was carrying a huge wreath of flowers. These were hung on the wall as the assembled crowd clapped approval.

The strangers then went into the cloakroom. That was in charge of the Boy Scouts of Argo-Summit.

The Boy Scouts on duty admitted this. The late arrivals demanded brooms. They set to work.

After the sweeping was finished the strangers got a dustpan and a basket and carried the trash out the back door.

When the party was over Mrs. S. R. Krupka of 1119 South Home avenue, Berwyn, didn't get back her $2,000 mink coat. Another lady discovered that her $500 seal coat was gone.

It all seemed quite plain to Chief Samuel Herzog of the Summit police. The strangers, he said, must have taken the coats.

Community Fund Is Within Million Dollars of Goal

A contribution of $15,000 by the Inland Steel company was announced yesterday by Ralph A. Bard, chairman of the Community Fund campaign. This gift and others received during the week-end put the drive within a million dollars of its $3,550,000 goal. Division chairmen and team captains will meet at noon Tuesday at the Palmer house for luncheon and to make reports on the campaign.

1,200 4-H CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS PARADE TONIGHT

Represent Cream of U. S. Farm Youth.

The 4-H club boys and girls, coming into Chicago from 44 states, Porto Rico, and Hawaii for the 17th national 4-H congress, spent yesterday viewing sights far removed from the farm. They saw Chicago.

Although they carried away the honors at the International Live stock exposition Saturday, their big moment there is to come tonight when they parade, 1,200 strong, through the arena of the International amphitheater. With them will go their prize cattle, their prize corn, their prize eggs and potatoes and pigs, as well as myriad pennants depicting the four h's of their clubwork, "Head, heart, hand, and health."

All leaders in their own areas, the 1,200 represent 1,235,000 farm youths. Among them is May Kitagawa, 15 years old, of Pahala, Hawaii, who was awarded the trip on her five year record in food and health work. Hawaii, she said yesterday, has a 4-H enrollment of 2,600.

Another traveler from afar is Juanita Lopez, 19 years old, of Cayey, Porto Rico, who is a winner in the national 4-H rural electrification contest. For her own canning and sewing, however, she used a kerosene stove and an antiquated pedal sewing machine.

APPLEBOX BABY DIES—WEIGHED ONLY 22 OUNCES

DRUMHELLER, Alta., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Betty Lou Carruthers, Canada's tiniest baby, died last night. She weighed but 22 ounces at birth last Monday and appeared in good health until late yesterday, when her condition became critical.

She was fed with an eyedropper on a diet of mother's milk, a compound and a drop of rum as stimulant. Loss of an ounce shortly after birth was considered normal for the child, whose head was no larger than a goose egg. The child was kept in an applebox incubator heated by a lamp.

Escaped Convict Trades Liberty for Square Meal

Tyler, Tex., Nov. 27.—(AP)—For a square meal and courteous treatment an Iowa convict traded his liberty today. Lloyd Barton, 21 years old, entered the office of Justice of the Peace Milton Fox of Troup, near here, and surrendered after exacting a promise that he would be fed and treated with courtesy. The young fugitive said he escaped from the Iowa state prison hospital at Boone on June 18 after serving one year of a fifteen year sentence for passing bad checks. Justice Fox communicated with Iowa officers, who confirmed the story.

COMMONWEALTH EDISON COMPANY AND ITS SUBSIDIARIES*

JAMES SIMPSON
Chairman

IT IS AN OBLIGATION of management to publish periodic reports on the operation of businesses in which the public has a vital interest. Partly as a fulfillment of this obligation and partly because of the importance of recent and proposed plans of the Commonwealth Edison Company, this message is being published.

The first duty of a public utility is to provide the highest quality of service at the lowest possible cost, consistent with fairness to both security holders and employes.

Service of this type is only possible when employe relations are good and when the credit of a company is so sound that it can borrow funds at the lowest prevailing rates in the money markets. This is fundamental in the utility industry, where large capital investment is constantly required to keep pace with increasing demands of the territory served and the rapid development of the science.

Since the beginning of 1933, this Company and its subsidiaries have made rate reductions totaling more than $7,000,000 on an annual basis. In the same period, tax requirements have increased $11,000,000 to $13,000,000 annually depending on decisions in cases now pending. In these ways the Company has made substantial contributions toward decreasing the cost of living and to the cost of government.

Revenue from increased use of service, savings in interest through refinancing and economies in operations have been used to offset the effect of tax increases and rate reductions.

The Companies pursue the policy of reducing rates as circumstances permit. It is confidently believed that further progress in this respect can be accomplished in the near future.

* * *

THE MANAGEMENT HAS BEEN ENGAGED for several years in working out a plan of financial consolidation and simplification of corporate structure.

Since May, 1938, a total of $224,000,000 of securities has been sold to the public. Of this amount, $146,000,000 of mortgage bonds of Commonwealth Edison Company and Public Service Company of Northern Illinois have been issued for refunding purposes, and approximately $78,000,000 of convertible debentures of Commonwealth Edison Company have been issued principally to retire funded debt of subsidiaries.

1. The Company has registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission $34,000,000 of additional mortgage bonds, the proceeds of which will be used to retire all of the mortgage debt of Super-Power Company of Illinois, a subsidiary, all of the stock of which is owned by the Company, and to provide $14,000,000 for future construction. Arrangements have been made to sell these bonds to seven large insurance companies.

2. An issue of approximately $25,000,000 of additional convertible debentures is being offered to stockholders to provide funds to retire all the mortgage bonds of two subsidiaries, Chicago District Electric Generating Corporation and Illinois Northern Utilities Company.

3. A special meeting of Edison stockholders has been called for December 1st, next, to vote upon a proposal to increase the number of shares of Edison common stock offered in exchange for the shares of Western United Gas and Electric Company preferred stock. If this is approved an equalizing adjustment will be made for those who have already exchanged their Western United preferred stock under the existing offer.

The total amount of debentures authorized by the stockholders in 1937 was $130,000,000. Of this amount, all except about $25,000,000 will have been issued by the end of this year, and these may be offered to stockholders to provide funds for the retirement of the $25,800,000 funded debt of Western United Gas and Electric Company. This further step will be deferred until substantial progress has been made toward the exchange of Western United preferred stock.

The steps already taken have been approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission. Five offerings of securities have been registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Federal Securities Act of 1933. The Companies have had the public spirited cooperation of these regulatory authorities, without which it would not have been possible to complete this financing within so short a period.

The debentures are convertible into Edison common stock, which right became effective September 1st of this year. By October 31st, approximately $5,500,000 had been converted. Thus the transfer of debt into equity ownership, which is one of the fundamentals of the program, is progressing.

Upon completion of the program, the consolidated capitalization of the Edison group will consist of (1) mortgage bonds of the Company, (2) mortgage bonds of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, (3) convertible debentures of the Company, and (4) common stock of the Company. The debentures should eventually be eliminated through conversion.

Capitalization ratios are as follows:

	End of 1936	October 31, 1938	Reflecting Steps Contemplated for Completion This Year	Reflecting Further Steps and Conversion of all Debentures
Funded Debt	62.4%	53.4%	50.5%	46.6%
Convertible Debentures	—	11.8%	15.5%	—
Preferred Stock of Subsidiaries	5.7%	2.0%	— †	—
Minority Interests	5.9%	0.4%	0.4%	—
Edison Common Stock	26.0%	32.4%	33.6%	53.4%
	100.0%	100.0%	100.0%	100.0%

On the basis of the number of shares of Edison common stock now outstanding, it is estimated that consolidated earnings for the year 1938 will approximate the $2.45 per share earned in 1937.

If the financing of the current year and the transactions contemplated for completion this year had been completed at the beginning of this year, it is estimated that consolidated earnings for 1938 would approximate $2.60 per share of Edison common stock.

On the same basis and assuming conversion of all debentures now outstanding and the debentures to be offered in December of this year, it is estimated that consolidated earnings for 1938 would approximate $2.10 per share of Edison common stock.

If the final offering of Edison debentures is made to retire the bonds of Western United Gas and Electric Company and if all these debentures are converted, it is estimated that such earnings of $2.10 per share of Edison common stock would be reduced to approximately $2.00.

It is improbable that complete conversion of the debentures will be effected for some years. Meanwhile, the Company will have the advantage of the low interest rate.

On the basis of the quarterly dividend of 40¢ per share paid November 1, 1938, the annual dividend rate is now $1.60.

ONE OF THE CHIEF ASSETS of these Companies is a loyal and efficient group of employes with many years of experience in utility service. For them the policy of maintaining pension funds, life insurance, sick benefit plans and other features of employe welfare has been adopted. These employes make their homes in the territory they serve, spend their pay checks there, and contribute substantially to the social and commercial life of their communities.

THIS COMPANY AND ITS SUBSIDIARIES take pride in keeping their properties in excellent operating condition to insure the continuation of superior service. With confidence in the future of Chicago and the outlying area served, it is estimated that in the next two years $75,000,000 in capital expenditures may be necessary to meet increasing demands.

And as these Companies thus adjust themselves to new—and constantly changing—conditions, they re-emphasize their pledge of good service to their customers and helpfulness to the communities they serve.

4 TIME PAROLEE TO SEEK FREEDOM AGAIN TODAY

208 Cook County Felons on Docket of 356.

Thomas Brennan, who has lived by the gun, will seek his fifth parole from the Illinois board of pardons and paroles today when a subcommittee meets at Pontiac reformatory.

Brennan is among the 356 convicts whose applications for parole have been placed on the December docket. Cook county sent up 208.

Brennan began his first prison sentence at the age of 21, when he was convicted of robbery with a gun. Today, at the age of 44, he is back in prison, in spite of four chances to make good via the parole route.

One Arrest After Another.

Dec. 30, 1915—Found guilty of robbery with a gun. Sentenced to Pontiac reformatory.

Parole No. 1—April 26, 1918.

May 22, 1920—Found guilty of robbery with a gun, after being twice acquitted on similar charges the month before.

Parole No. 2—Feb. 24, 1928.

1930—Arrested; returned to prison as a parole violator.

Parole No. 3—1933.

Oct. 8, 1935—Arrested; returned to Pontiac as a parole violator because of drunkenness.

Parole No. 4—Sept. 5, 1936.

Aug. 12, 1937—Arrested as a suspicious character with two guns strapped to his sock garters. Sentenced to 30 days in the Bridewell and again returned to Pontiac as a parole violator.

$125,000 Gem Thief Wants Out.

Among the other Chicago criminals seeking freedom by the parole route are five whose records are significant: Fred Brissa, Earl Nicholson, Walter F. Wolf, Jack Chisholm, and Edward Rockwood.

Brissa was captured in 1929 as head of a gang which took $125,000 in jewel thefts and looted gold coast homes.

In 1929, at the age of 20, Nicholson entered prison after killing two druggists and shooting a watchman during the commission of seventy-five robberies to get money for dates with girls. He has other sentences to serve.

Wolf and Chisholm are embezzlers. Wolf took $1,200,000 from the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. Chisholm took $3,200 from the county treasurer's office. Wolf has other sentences to serve.

Rockwood was the most ingenious criminal of them all. A year ago he began serving a term of one to ten years for robbing idle stone cutting firms of everything movable. Such items as 15 ton derricks were taken with ease. Four large buildings were stolen at one place with the aid of a wrecking crew.

RESCUERS TURN DOWN REWARD FOR SAVING LIFE

Courage is its own reward. That is the philosophy of the Kissane brothers, William and John Jr., 3617 North Troy street, and Raymond Moore, 2640 Grand avenue. They refused money offered them yesterday by relatives of Marvin Meyers, 8 years old, whom they rescued from the icy water of the Douglas park lagoon Saturday.

"If we can get medals for those young men we certainly will," said Jacob J. Chapman, 3009 Gunnison avenue, Marvin's uncle. The boy's parents, Harry and Clara Meyers, 1502 South Albany avenue, echoed his sentiments. Other relatives called at the Kissane home to express their thanks.

William Kissane led the way in smashing through the ice, swimming out to the boy, and bringing him back to shore. Last night he left for the University of Toledo, where he is a sophomore.

In another home there was mourning because there were no rescuers about when George Salamie Jr., 10, and his brother, Theodore, 4, went through the ice Saturday. Their bodies and sled were found in the Washington park lagoon. They lived at 6128 Evans avenue. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow at the Holy Cross Catholic church, 65th street and Maryland avenue. Burial will be at St. Mary's cemetery.

21 of 22 Swiss Cantons O.K. Financial Plan for Defense

BERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Twenty-one of Switzerland's 22 cantons today voted to accept a new emergency financial program by which the government expects to strengthen its national defenses. Geneva was the only canton which recorded a plurality of votes against the proposal. Under terms of the plan, the proceeds of the federal income tax will be used directly for military aviation, defense equipment, and training. The new program would continue until 1941 when a new tax to be known as the "national defense tax" would be applied.

MORAN TO FACE TRIAL AS FORGER OF BONDS TODAY

State to Bare Comeback Plots of Gangsters.

George [Bugs] Moran and Frank Parker, known as the airplane bootleggers, are scheduled to go to trial this morning before Judge Robert Jerome Dunne in the Criminal court on charges of forgery. Both were prominent figures during the prohibition era. Frank Hicketts, one time county highway police lieutenant who was later convicted of murder, will be a co-defendant. The case may be delayed by motions by defense attorneys, is was indicated.

George Moran.

Ten men were named as defendants in the forgery conspiracy, which had as its object the flooding of the country with thousands of spurious American Express travelers checks and New York Central railroad bonds.

The state has kept most of its evidence under cover. It was learned yesterday, however, that a complete exposé of the efforts of gangsters to recoup lost prohibition day fortunes by other crimes, will be made at the trial.

1,000 SONS TOAST TINY LUXEMBURG AT JUBILEE FETE

The grand duchy of Luxemburg [area 999 square miles] nestles between Germany, Belgium, and France. Its population is less than 300,000. Considering all this, it was a mammoth meeting that Americans of Luxemburg extraction held yesterday.

More than 1,000 members of the Luxemburger Brotherhood of America crowded the Swis club at 639 Webster avenue last night for the golden jubilee of the fraternal organization. They came from all over the United States. There was a banquet, a stage show, and dancing.

At noon a solemn memorial mass was sung by Luxemburger priests in St. Benedict's church, Irving Park road and Leavitt street. The grand duchy is almost entirely Catholic. Later William H. Hamilton, chargé d'affaires of Luxemburg and its consul general in New York, and John Marsch, consul general in Chicago, were guests at the home of Fred A. Gilson, 2104 Bradley place. He is president of the Luxemburgers.

QUARANTINE 3,000 AT VETS' HOSPITAL FOR DIPHTHERIA

The 3,000 war veteran patients and staf members of the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital were placed under quarantine yesterday to prevent the spread of diphtheria which has killed one patient and stricken four others in the last week. In addition fourteen patients have infectious sore throats which may lead to diphtheria.

The hospital was closed to visitors by Col. Hugh Scott on the advice of his medical staf, headed by Dr. W. E. Kendall. Tests being given the 1,200 staf members and 1,800 patients have disclosed six diphtheria carriers. All are being isolated.

Col. Scott said that none of the patients now ill is in serious condition and the situation is not alarming. The quarantine, he said, will be continued until danger of epidemic is passed.

RENEW DEMANDS FOR ARSON FAKE WARANTS TODAY

Further demands are expected to be made today on Judge John J. Rooney, of the Municipal court, for the issuance of warants for State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas and several other persons in connection with the false arrests of Emil Guerrieri and Frank Kolesiak on fake arson charges.

The demands were made originally two months ago by Attorney Joseph T. Harrington, but action was postponed from time to time by Judge Rooney. While Judge Rooney was on vacation, Judge Thomas A. Green, sitting in the Felony court in his place, dismissed the warant petitions, and in addition sentenced Harrington to jail for two days on a contempt sentence. Harrington is appealing.

Judge Rooney today will sit in a civil branch of the court. He said yesterday, on his return from his vacation, that he did not know whether he still retained jurisdiction in view of Judge Green's action. Attorney Harrington said last night he will ask Judge Rooney to vacate Green's order.

Meantime, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson is expected to decide Friday whether to intercede in the case. Harrington recently filed a petition in federal court asserting he could not get justice in the Municipal or state courts.

STORE ROBBERY VICTIMS TO VIEW 3 IN $10,000 RAID

Two women with long records as shoplifters and the husband of one of them, who were seized in a Berwyn bungalow Saturday night, were held by the police yesterday for identification in numerous store robberies. Stolen merchandise worth $10,000—fur coats, dresses, men's suits and overcoats—was found in the place.

Those held were Percy Joseph O'Donnell, brother of Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, former south side beer runner; O'Donnell's wife, who uses the aliases of Mrs. Marian Wilson and Mrs. Frank Weber; and Mrs. Violet Bender, alias Vivian Martin. The latter woman has a prison record.

Detectives Ralph Miller and John Nykaza of the Racine avenue station, Fremont Nestor and James McFeely of Oak Park, and Sergt. Charles Rudderham of Berwyn made the arrests following several days of clever detective work.

2 Bandits Rob Pedestrian of Watch, Overcoat and $11

Arthur Ziemer, 6249 South Elizabeth street, was wearing a heavy overcoat early yesterday when two men halted him at 40th street and Wentworth avenue. One of the pair had no overcoat. When their business was finished the stranger had the warm overcoat and Ziemer had none. The men also took a wrist watch and $11 from him.

Makes Her Debut

Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, niece of Mrs. Roosevelt, as she made debut in Washington Saturday night.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Capital bachelors reflected today on a New Deal in debutantes. Last night they gathered at the Mayflower hotel to meet Eleanor Roosevelt, debutante niece and namesake of Mrs. Roosevelt, and several dozen other pretty misses who are "coming out" this season.

The debutantes were in white, with coronets of gardenias in their powdered hair, their costumes contrasting vividly with the bachelors' formal black. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt will honor Miss Roosevelt at a White House ball next month.

BRICK PAVING SINCE 1933 TOPS 21 YEAR TOTAL

There has been 45 per cent more improvement of brick streets under Mayor Kelly's administration than during the preceding twenty-one years. Figures showing this achievement were sent yesterday to each of the aldermen by the mayor.

Since 1912, when the vehicle tax fund was established, 3,995,890 square yards of brick pavement have been repaired, relaid, or improved. Nearly 60 per cent of this work has been done during the last five years and eight months.

"The importance of these repairs," Mayor Kelly wrote, "is indicated by the fact that brick pavements in Chicago rank next to asphalt in proportion of total pavements. The work constitutes a definite contribution to property owners and to better trafic conditions."

Brick repair totals follow: 1912 to 1933, 1,627,469 square yards; 1933 to Oct. 20, 1938, 2,368,421 square yards. The earlier average per year was 77,498 square yards. Now it is 417,957 square yards.

Moving Forward

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

presents here each day observations intended to be of value to those it seeks to serve.

WHICH, BEING INTERPRETED—

By CALEB

THE OLD ORDER in business has altered. Time was—and no far-ago time, at that—when the three major activities, or divisions, of an enterprise were: finance, production and sales. But out of the social-industrial realignments of the past few years has sprung a "fourth dimension" factor . . . today so deep-founded, so wide-reaching, that it vitally determines the effectiveness of the other three.

Its name is Public Relations; and its purpose is to develop a fitter and finer standard of service to the employes, suppliers, customers and stockholders of whatever business—in whatever field—becomes, on that basis alone, worthy to survive.

The paramount problem of every such business, needless to say, is the problem of interpretation. So inherent in all undertakings is the element of misunderstanding, that right interpretation to its public of a many-sided, multiple-service business is at once the most demanding and delicate of operations. "Factual statements," said an economist recently, "however candid and complete, will not accomplish this. Press-agentry is not its answer. Parading of achievement is pointless. Rather, the task begins in the innermost recesses of management itself; in self-examination of the motives, morals and moralities of the men who administer it."

These are hard, plain words. They probe into an organization's actual "right to be." They apply to the making and marketing of things, to the producing and promoting of services, a yardstick more spiritual than material. Under such measurement, dark areas become definite as day.

Precisely that, however, is the interpretation test to which many corporate groups today are subjecting themselves—clarifying their sayings and doings in an honest attempt no longer to cajole or inveigle good will, but to deserve the favor and friendship of an understanding public. Through departments of Public Relations they are inviting their communities and customers to visit a house which they themselves have first set in order.

Nowhere are the terms "public" and "relations" being more earnestly translated into the language of daily service, of earned esteem, than in the present-day department store. We at Field's, for example, have long since discovered that the most casual inside activity relates to the outside public. And words, we shall always contend, are never half so effective interpreters as deeds.

OLD CATHEDRAL TIES GUATEMALA TO ANCIENT SPAIN

Built on Knoll 500 Feet Above City Level.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GUATEMALA, Nov. 25.—[By Air Mail.]—A tour around the city of Guatemala and its suburbs unfolds some colorful, picturesque, and interesting sights. There is local color aplenty.

Taxicabs are cheap but it is necessary to bargain with the drivers. The fee is from $1 to $2.50 an hour, depending on how big a sucker one is. The drivers have the same racket here that is so common all over the world. Unless one makes a definite understanding, a cab driver will make one a low hourly rate, then when the drive is over calmly inform his fare that because the tour went out of the city limits, the trip rate must be charged. That is always about four times as much.

The foxy native knows that a foreign tourist will pay rather than create a disturbance. The experienced traveler will produce his map and have a definite understanding before starting out.

Steep Climb to Cathedral.

Under way, the first stop is El Carmel, a large cathedral started by the Spaniards in 1541. It is built on the city's highest knoll. It furnishes an excellent observation point. It is located about one mile from the center of the city and is reached by a rough winding one way road up to the top, about 500 feet above the city level.

Strangely enough, tourists are permitted to drive up while the natives must walk, and stranger still, there is no racket involved. There is no guide to collect a fee. A polite policeman guards the road at the bottom.

The inhabitants still worship in the cathedral. However, the old place is showing signs of decay. High corner towers supporting several large bells add to the cathedral's distinction.

A good view of the town is obtained. The house roofs look much like a blanket of silver tin. An old fort of the usual round design and height is seen some distance away. A modern cement manufacturing plant, belonging to Italy, is close by.

Flowers Everywhere.

There are flowers, flowers all about. The place is charming and unspoiled by modern improvements and catering to tourists.

Ten minutes away from the cathedral is the Minerva temple. It has a rectangular concrete floor 50 feet by 100 feet and elevated five feet. Steps lead up from all sides. Surrounding the edge of the floor are twenty huge round pillars about four feet in diameter and twenty-five feet high supporting the roof.

Nearby is a large outdoor relief map of Guatemala. Observation towers twenty feet high look down upon it. The map is fifty feet in diameter and the highest mountain peak about five feet high.

The map shows clearly the mountainous character of the country—many peaks, chains of hills, and plateaus, but not much level farming country. Each peak, town, and point of interest is labeled. The map is surrounded by a steel fence seven feet high, also a circle of Poinsettias in full bloom. A grove of cypress trees and regal palms surround the little park.

Beauty in Open Air Market.

Back into town for a visit to the open air market. Covering a large city block, it sells and trades everything from cedar chests to canaries. One booth had a multitude of old broken bottles. The meat section had an ominous touch. Sitting along the crest of the little tin roof covering it were a flock of black birds greatly resembling our buzzards.

One could not believe there could be so many kinds of vegetables. The flower section was a delight. Many Guatemalans spend their time tramping between markets, always loaded, bartering and trading.

On around to the penitentiary built in 1933 and strikingly modern. Not many inmates were seen, but those observed did not seem to be having such a hard time. In fact they seemed to enjoy their bright red and white striped clothes—the stripes running from head to foot. There is a curio shop at the entrance and the guards are polite.

Away from the center of town the houses and buildings are much more attractive. Trees and parks pop up here and there. Over one of the boulevards is a miniature Eiffel tower about 100 feet high. Horse, mule, and ox carts are everywhere, with many pack ponies and burros here and there. Few trucks are noticed.

Twenty minutes out is the suburb of Aurora and the fairgrounds—New York had better take notice. In preparation for the annual fair the town is spotless. Every amusement device of Coney Island, Riverview, and West Chicago is there. A magnificent scenic railway is being tuned up. Street after street of carnival tents or small buildings are up. Across the way nearby and ready is a modern mile race track and large concrete stands. Adjoining this is a combination park, flower garden, and modern zoo with even chow dogs on display.

A mile away is a pasture polo field. A polo team arrives, coming all the way from Panama. This little country has something.

Cap Traps Bandit

Harvey Fowler fitting old cap he was wearing when he entered store which was robbed.

Fowler in the new hat which the bandit took while in the store.

The cap fitted, but Harvey Fowler, 21 years old, didn't wear it long. Police put it back in the safe after he had tried it on. Then they locked Harvey in a detective bureau cell. It is possible, however, that he will get to wear it once more when he puts it on before the jury of twelve that tries him on charges of robbing Harry Chazaskin, in his hat shop, 21 West Van Buren street on Nov. 16.

The robber took $105 and a new hat which he wore out of the store. He left his old cap behind. The police kept the cap. When Harvey was brought in the cap was found to fit. In addition the suspect was wearing the new hat. Under questioning the youth confessed. He was seized on suspicion and was found to have a toy pistol in his pocket.

GOOD FELLOW PARTIES SPREAD YULETIDE CHEER

More Groups Planning Events This Year.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

A popular method of carrying on the Good Fellow campaign at this Christmas season is for organizations to hold Good Fellow parties. With the money raised at these affairs baskets of food, toys, and candy are purchased for delivery on Christmas eve to the homes of unfortunate families.

This plan is three fold in its benefits. It provides an excellent Yuletide event for any group, it gives every one an opportunity to take part in the work and none, whether he gives much or little toward the fund, is deprived of the privilege of contributing toward Good Fellow baskets.

Total Growing Each Year.

The party plan has been successfully carried out for years by numerous Chicago organizations. Each year the total attendance grows and with it the Good Fellow fund.

Two groups will hold preliminary meetings tomorrow. The Good Fellow committee members of the Chicago Trafic club will meet at noon in the organization's clubrooms in the Palmer house. At 3 p. m. Capt. Ora W. Young, the aviation industry's Good Fellow leader, will start the ball rolling for its party in the office of Supt. John Casey in the administration building at Chicago airport.

Arthur H. Schwietert, the Trafic club chairman announces that its third annual Good Fellow luncheon party will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 7, in the Empire room of the Palmer house. Several railway presidents and others high in the transportation field will be among the thousand persons expected to attend the two hour program. Stars of the concert and theatrical stage and radio will be on the program.

Now is the time for your organization to plan its Good Fellow party. Suggestions for programs and other details may be had by calling the Good Fellow editor.

Names of the families to which baskets may be taken are available at the Good Fellow bureau, located at 1 South Dearborn street. Either fill in the coupon which accompanies this story or phone. The number is Superior 0100.

NYA PASSES GOAL OF 4,000 JOBS FOR YOUTHS OF STATE

With three days to go in its 60-day job hunt, the National Youth administration has passed its goal of 4,000 positions for NYA members in private industry, it was announced yesterday by William J. Campbell, retiring state director.

Steady jobs for 4,038 young men and women employed as work students of the NYA have been found, said Campbell, who was recently appointed to succeed Michael L. Igoe, as United States district attorney. Of the total placed in private industry, 2,862 were downstate and 1,176 in Chicago.

"We have reduced the NYA payrolls in Illinois perceptibly and at the same time found jobs for some 4,000 youths whose income will be increased fourfold," said Campbell.

NEW YORK DIGS OUT FROM UNDER 13 INCHES SNOW

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—This city and the entire eastern area was digging itself out today from under the snows of a double blizzard. Weather bureau records were broken here by four consecutive November days with an average temperature of 10 degrees below normal. The city was blanketed by thirteen inches of snow when six inches fell last night on top of the seven inches that blanketed the city on Thanksgiving day. More than 42,000 workers were removing the city drifts today at a cost of $1,000,000.

Slightly Warmer Weather, City's Forecast for Today

Slightly warmer weather is in prospect for Chicago today. Forecaster C. A. Donnell said that cloudiness would increase, but that no snow was expected. The fall Saturday night and early yesterday totaled an inch. The lowest recorded temperature was 16 degrees at 11 p. m. Saturday and Mr. Donnel indicated the low today would be several degrees higher.

MICHIGAN SETS PACE FOR G. O. P., SAYS HOFFMAN

Labor Program Holds Key to 1940 Policies.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Allegan, Mich., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Congressman Clare E. Hoffman [R.] holds that labor developments in Michigan in the next two years will be a yardstick for national politics in 1940.

Clare E. Hoffman.

The fruit belt congressman, whose activities as an arch enemy of communism within John L. Lewis' C. I. O., have brought him recognition for outstanding services in the campaign, says that Michigan will be a key state.

Gov. Frank Murphy, a Democrat and a Roosevelt administration favorite, was beaten Nov. 8 by former Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald in a Republican landslide, a chief issue in which was Murphy's position in the 1937 sitdown strikes, his indorsement by communists, and the activities of the latter in Michigan's labor troubles.

State Held Party Gauge.

"I think the Republican party will be judged in 1940 by what happens in Michigan," said Hoffman in his spacious law offices here, surrounded by one of the largest private law libraries in the state.

"If the election means any one thing it means the rural and industrial sections are law abiding and want the law enforced. They want a worker to have the opportunity to work and earn a living if he wants to. Those were the orders given by the voters. The future depends on how faithfully the new state administration carries out these orders."

Hoffman himself came through with an increased majority in the recent campaign. He was opposed by the C. I. O. and was marked for a purge by labor's Nonpartisan league, which Lewis helped create. E. L. Oliver, executive vice president of this league, said in Washington that two Michigan congressmen were put in class D, which was composed of members so active and influential against the league that their defeat under any circumstance was desirable. Hoffman was one. The other Michigan congressman was Carl E. Mapes of Grand Rapids. Both were reëlected.

Communists Fight Hoffman.

The communists worked against Hoffman. The Townsendites opposed him. He was on the Townsend plan investigating committee and had said he believed in old age pensions, but not in the Townsend plan. The Workers' Alliance, composed of WPA workers and affiliated with the C. I. O., was against him.

Despite all this, Hoffman won by 15,000 votes, while two years ago his margin had been 5,000 and four years ago it had been 13,000.

Regardless of the battle on his home grounds, Hoffman found opportunity to campaign in other Michigan districts and in other states. His platform services were in demand.

Last month in Crystal City, Mo., a meeting he was addressing under sponsorship of the Republican state committee was halted by a C. I. O. riot. Hoffman, nationally known as a critic of Lewis, the Roosevelt administration, the national labor relations board, and the communistic activities in the C. I. O., was hissed and booed by 200 organized hecklers wearing C. I. O. buttons. To calm things down Hoffman, by request of the chairman, did not finish his speech.

Assails Aid to C. I. O.

In his address Hoffman charged Lewis and the C. I. O. with fostering communist policies and accused the President, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, and Gov. Murphy of giving aid and comfort to that same C. I. O.

Earlier in the year Hoffman was billed to speak in Reading, Pa., under auspices of a citizens' group. On his way there he received a telegram saying that the meeting had been called off. The telegram was a forgery, however, and an audience waited until 11 o'clock, wondering what had become of the speaker.

Hoffman began his denunciations of communistic attachments with the C. I. O. at the time of the sitdown strikes in Flint. He was one of the first public officials to raise his voice in protest against the sitdowns and the radicals who directed them. For months on the floor of the house he kept making attacks on the C. I. O., the national labor board, and the Wagner law.

The material Hoffman piled into these addresses in large measure laid the foundation for the work of the Dies house committee which is investigating un-American activities. It was of undoubted influence in some states other than Michigan which had Republican landslides. His work was credited with helping the G. O. P. in Minnesota, where communism was a chief issue and the Farmer-Labor party itself was split over communist influences in the statehouse, and in South Dakota, where communistic support of the Democrats was a factor in the campaign.

Speech Stirs Controversy.

One of Hoffman's speeches in congress, printed in the Congressional Record, is a subject of controversy with the national labor board. This address, delivered June 1, 1937, also charged that the C. I. O. was a communist controled body, and accused Lewis of using communists as organizers.

The address was reprinted by the Constitutional Educational League of New Haven, Conn., in the form of a pamphlet entitled "Communism's Iron Grip on the C. I. O." The league illustrated the booklet with pictures of Earl Browder, communist chief, and others.

Last July the labor board ruled that circulation of this booklet on property of the Muskin Shoe company in Westminster, Md., was an unfair labor practice under the Wagner act. The labor board held that the company had restrained and coerced its employés.

"Can you imagine such a decision?" asked Hoffman. "Under that decision if a minister in the pulpit had a factory man in his congregation and made a prayer asking the Lord to prevent violence, it would be an unfair labor practice."

THE LA FOLLETTE PROPAGANDA MILL.

When the C. I. O., following the practices of the communist frontal attack, seized properties the property owners—except in Illinois—were denied the protection of the law. New Deal governors in Michigan, Iowa, Ohio, and Pennsylvania used the state troops to prevent local law officers from enforcing court orders and from ejecting the invaders from the plants they had occupied. Two of the governors, Davey of Ohio and Kraschel of Iowa, came to their senses, realizing what it meant to use the soldiers to protect insurrectionists.

The federal government supported the anarchy. Madame Perkins said that the sitdown strike should not be regarded as illegal. The postoffice department aided by refusing deliveries when employés legally occupying a plant were besieged by the C. I. O. and by making deliveries when plants were illegally occupied. The owners of the seized properties were compelled to serve them with light, water, and heat, and the state troops not only prevented the enforcement of court orders and restrained the police and the sherif's deputies but also kept open the lines of supply, making it possible for Lewis' communists to remain in comfortable possession of properties which they damaged as they pleased and occupied at will.

These facts are well known and well remembered. They have been so well remembered that the New Dealers responsible for the revolution against the principles of American government have been thrown out of office. The property owners, as has been said, were denied the protection of the law. Their government turned against them, took away their rights, and left them to face not only the armed forces of the C. I. O. but the military of the state. These well known facts are recounted in order that the part played by the La Follette committee, masquerading under the term civil liberties, may be understood.

It wasn't enough that the C. I. O. had the backing of the federal government—Mr. Lewis bought that with a $600,000 campaign contribution—that it could mobilize the National Guard for its protection, and that the property owners had been denied their legal rights. The communist revolution had to have its propaganda mill. No despotism ruling by force can be without its manufacturers of slander. Physical force is not enough. The public mind must be poisoned against the victims of the force. That part the La Follette committee undertook to play.

While the Lewis communists attacked the properties the La Follette committee was to attack the property owners. The civil liberties label was to deceive the public into thinking that this inquisition was concerned with the rights of individual Americans under the law. At no time did the La Follette committee ever undertake to do any such thing. It had no use for any situation in which men were being deprived of the right to work, where they were beseiged by lawless men, where the courts had been stopped, or where force prevailed over law. They selected only such cases as involved attempts on the part of property owners, deserted by the law, to protect themselves.

Outrages against civil liberty perpetrated by the C. I. O. had no place in the La Follette investigation. Its whole purpose was to rouse prejudice against citizens who already had been deprived of their rights. Each disorder arising out of this conflict was attributed to the property owners, the companies, employers, managements, and employés who throughout the troubled two years were entirely on the defensive and who for the most part made no effort to operate the plants but merely to keep them from being damaged.

This country had never encountered such a situation before in its history. It never before had known such a complete reversal of law. Outlaws had been given preferred position and the forces of the states stood behind them while privileged lawbreakers took possession of other people's property and denied protection to whole communities.

The La Follette committee was to justify this outbreak of revolution, using the authority given it by the United States congress to present a completely distorted version of what was happening and throw all the blame on the innocent victims. Fortunately, such a betrayal of authority did not work. It brought out a vote of condemnation which swept the states temporarily in the power of the revolutionaries and they all have been thrown out, as they richly deserve to be. But the La Follette committee still exists. It received large appropriations, whereas the Dies committee, which has been exposing these lawless men, was given a pittance and denied all assistance by federal departments.

The La Follette committee was to picture the revolutionaries as abused persons, to arouse class hatreds, to impose upon persons easily deceived, and to give all this disorder and lawlessness the appearance of a noble struggle for human rights, whereas it was a vicious assault upon democratic principles of law, order, justice, and equity. The Labor Relations board followed right on the heels of the communist propaganda outfit and has endeavored to read into the law of the land the practices which the La Follette committee attempted to justify. The labor board assumes that a property owner has no right to discharge any of the men who destroyed property. It rules that they must not only be retained in employment but be paid for the time in which they were rioting and destroying the goods of the people who must compensate them for the damage they did. We think that the Nazis have hit new depths of distorted ferocity when they compel the victims of Nazi mobs to pay for their own property which the mobs destroyed. The labor board seeks to have American law declare the same principle and Senator La Follette has been the Goebbels, clamoring in justification of this atrocity.

HITLER'S PEACE.

Hitler's agreements with France and Great Britain followed doctor's orders for the French and the British in view of their present feebleness. They are also precisely what the Nazi boss would order for himself. He agrees to do what for some time to come is exactly what he would want to do. He pledges himself not to allow any dispute with France to reach a point where it cannot be settled by peaceful negotiations. A somewhat similar agreement engages him to friendly relations with Mr. Chamberlain's government.

It might be thought that these agreements rule out the use of power politics to recover colonial possessions. Herr Hitler rather agrees not to threaten London or Paris with bombs to make them turn over territories taken after the war. Only recently he has thumped the table when talking about these lost colonies, saying that the nations that took them would meet his terms, or else. However, the colonies have not been imperative in Hitler's expansion schemes which, as revealed in the schedule of his life story, aim at the drive eastward.

His program for the immediate future includes Danzig, Rumania, and the Ukraine. Austria and Czechoslovakia already have been taken on scheduled time. His success in carrying out his program almost to the day thus far is the best basis for the belief that the rest of the expansion will be undertaken as outlined in "Mein Kampf."

It is true that in the pre-view of Nazi intentions Hitler said that France was Germany's Carthage and that it must be destroyed because it was the implacable enemy. It has been explained since that a man may consult changing circumstances and alter his mind in some small particulars. France is not now a threat to Germany. Its alliances have been dissolved. It has reneged on the obligations it had assumed. It is not the same nation which marched into the Ruhr to help destroy the German republic, and if it agrees to remain quiet on the western front it advances Herr Hitler's immediate purposes to his complete satisfaction.

By these agreements he has pacified the side on which he desires to remain inactive and has won a free hand for himself on the side he intends to push ahead. The so-called democracies get peace, temporarily at least, and the autocratic powers are free to proceed to their own quarrels. What will happen in the long run is another matter. For the present the short view prevails.

IN THE DOG HOUSE.

The incomparable McNutt of Indiana seems to be taking his presidential ambitions seriously, but in so doing he is unique. Nobody else, in or out of Indiana, shares his hopes and fears unless it is little Minton, who can't decide whether to be ungrateful to McNutt, who gave him his first good political job, or to Mr. Roosevelt, who has allowed Minton's name to be mentioned in connection with bigger things.

The fact is, of course, that there is no Indiana Democrat, McNutt or anybody else, whose candidacy these days can get past the joke stage. Everybody suspects that the last election in Indiana was stolen by the Democrats and there is plenty of evidence to support the suspicion. The Democratic judges of the Indiana Supreme court, who, temporarily at least, have prevented a recount of the ballots, have placed themselves in the position of concealing the robbery. In the circumstances the nomination of an Indiana Democrat is about as probable as the nomination of Al Capone.

WELL DONE.

The Chicago Motor club, State's Attorney Courtney, and his assistants, Richard Austin and Alex Napoli, are to be congratulated upon their work in disposing of the Dick Turpins of Dixmoor. The chief congratulations, however, go to motorists and to citizens generally who are all concerned with any such flagrant abuse of official authority as the Dixmoor [former Specialville] conspiracy represented. The conviction of these offenders and Judge William J. Lindsay's application of jail penalties, besides fines of $2,000 for each of the principal defendants and $500 each for the lesser, will have a salutary effect. The punishment is well merited, for as Judge Lindsay remarked "the evidence indicates that these men were highwaymen rather than highway policemen."

The Dixmoor nuisance has been wiped out and enterprises of its kind will be discouraged henceforth. The motor club and the authorities from the prosecution to Judge Lindsay deserve a public vote of thanks.

GOVERNMENT EYES "SMALL SAVINGS."

[Milwaukee Journal.]

The federal proposal to have the national government in some fashion get hold of the small savings of workmen and use those savings in some fashion to encourage building in the intermediate low cost housing field now rouses the indignation of the National Retail Lumber Dealers' association.

This group declares that it has recently done considerable building in this field in coöperation with the lumber manufacturers' association and the FHA. It feels that, with building loan agencies also cooperating, this field is being quite satisfactorily covered and that it is quite unnecessary for government to concern itself further.

Independent students of the building situation are inclined to agree with the lumbermen—there is no need for further participation by government in building activity at this time. This being so, there is just one conclusion to be drawn from the federal proposal—the government is irked that a large body of small savings is somehow escaping the federal clutch. To those who feel that government should have its finger on everything that is spent or saved, that is bad.

Perhaps the recent election will at last convince the powers in Washington that citizens generally do not share this view. What the people want is not more government participation in their business but the speediest possible return to a situation where participation can be definitly lessened. What the people want is such an improvement in national conditions that government can go back exclusively to the business of governing, leaving to business the task of providing men with the wherewithal of living and leaving to individuals at least a reasonable control over their own purses.

AMERICA IN THE MAKING.

The popularity of "Northwest Passage" has established Kenneth Roberts as an author of the type that modern American literature needs—a first rate historical novelist with a sense of pride of national backgrounds. This epic tale of the French and Indian war has stimulated interest in Roberts' earlier stories, which are now being eagerly read, and the editor of this column has been taking a course in them with profound satisfaction. They are "Arundel," dealing with the American invasion of Canada in the first year of the revolution; "Rabble in Arms," which has Benedict Arnold as its central figure and the surrender of Burgoyne's army at Saratoga as its climax; "The Lively Lady," which takes to the sea with privateersmen in the war of 1812; and "Captain Caution," its companion piece and sequel.

Roberts is a meticulous historian as well as a vigorous novelist. His books are romances based on original research into documents of the period. The early American spirit, as expressed by the hardy folk of the Maine sea coast, inspires his work.

Laughter in Morse Code.

It might interest Quizzicuss [11-17-'38] and others to know that originally, as used in American Morse code on the railroads some thirty-five years ago, the HI, meaning laughter, was HA—which is, of course, no invention at all. The faster tempo of modern life, I suppose, has reduced the A to an I by the simple process of shortening the dot-dash, which is A, to the dot-dot, which is I.

SO LITTLE TIME.

O life, there is so little time for living!
O heart, there is so short a while for love!
O hungry eyes that shall go, unforgiving,
Into the darkness, closed to skies above!

I cannot bear to lose the whole world's beauty:
And flowers' fragrance; songs remembered mutely;
And silence sobbing on the lonely dune.

Too soon these eager hands will cease their yearning
Of friendship; velvet's softness; the returning
Caress of dogs; small homely tasks; and such.

But O, if we store up, against forgetting,
The little vagrant things we're dreaming of,
Perhaps we shall go down with small regretting
There was so brief a time for life and love!

And when Life brings at last from all her treasure,
Her final gift—the last adventure—Death,
Then laughingly we'll tread that stately measure,
For Death is Life's fulfillment of the dream-lust
For beauty, music, romance—Paradise.
And somewhere, O my soul, will be blue stardust

Fond Memories of Stuffed Whale.

Sir: The insulting remarks slung at me at times in your column by that Gold Coast hillbilly Duke Bakrak who, until the steam shovel was invented, rated as the biggest mud tosser in these parts, brings back fond memories. For instance, the time me an' him was ankling down the Boul Mich an' right near the bridge they was exhibiting a stuffed whale, price 25c admission.

"Ah," says the Duke, "never in my life has I seen a stuffed whale!"

"An' it's been dam near that long since you seen 25c," says I.

"I will make you a gambling proposition," says he. [Incidentally, the Duke is one of Chicago's wildest gamblers; in fact, if there was only two horses in a race he would think nothin' of putting a dime on each of them to "show."] "Yes, sir," continues him, "we will toss a coin, if you have a coin—I haven't—to see wether you buy both tickets or if I owe you for mine."

"I shall buy the tickets," says I, "because I am rolling in wealth, havin' just received a royalty check from my dear publisher. In fact, if we can git some one to cash it we will spend the other 65c for food."

So we swings in an' gives the embalmed bluegill the stare. Pritty soon a dear old nearsighted lady hobbles in, an' after a few minutes she says to me, "Well, it sertinly looks dead enough, but I thought it would be bigger than that!"

An' the reason me an' the Duke went out an' spent the other 65c for likker instead of food was because the dear old lady wasn't looking at the whale. [An' she wasn't looking at me.]

FOR HUNTERS AND COOKS.

NOW that the rabbit season is on Nimrods will take up the chase in pursuit of the lively cottontail and the leaping jackrabbit. But skinning and dressing the "bag" for the table or the market invite some hazard.

For several years past physicians have recognized what is probably an old disease but one which has burst meteorlike upon the medical horizon. It is called tularemia because its epidemic qualities were first demonstrated among the wild rodents of Tulare county, California. Later it was discovered in Arizona and Utah, where it became known as "deer-fly fever."

Much of the original investigation as to the characteristics of the illness was carried out by means of blood studies of wild rabbits but the causative organisms have been sown far and wide. In certain localities they are now found in the tissues of quail, sage hens, squirrels, ground hogs, prairie dogs, and gophers. They are carried from one animal to another or from rodents to birds by ticks, flies, fleas, or lice, and may be transmitted to man by insects or through the blood, particularly in the process of preparation for food. For example, a jagged bone may lacerate the skin of the hand or some contact be made with a finger where an open wound, such as a hangnail, may permit the entrance of the germs. Rubbing the eyes with contaminated finger tips may convey the bacteria to the conjunctiva, hence the ophthalmologist may be the first to identify the trouble.

In fixing game for cooking the suggestion is offered that gloves be worn by the housewife as well as the hunter. There is no danger in eating the meat of infected "bunnies" if it is cooked thoroughly by boiling or baking in a hot oven for a sufficient length of time.

How does the malady manifest itself? There is usually a sudden rise in temperature lasting for two or three days. This may be followed by a period of improvement possibly with some weakness which may continue for from twenty-four hours to three or four days. Then comes the second fever with a gradual decline to normal. Within a short while the patient feels perfectly well; in fact, he may insist upon resuming work. But setbacks are likely to occur and a temperature may persist similar to undulant [Malta] fever for several months. This may be higher in the morning or mount toward evening and be accompanied by profuse sweating.

A majority of all victims will exhibit some ulceration of the lymph glands. Inasmuch as the affliction spreads via the lymph channels these filtering sieves—the glands—are likely to become inflamed. In fact, in some cases there may be a fair number of such lesions at the bend of the elbow or affecting the structures in the armpit. In addition, there is often a primary sore at the site of inoculation. This may not be observed at first but may be recalled later by the patient if he is questioned closely.

We must not look upon tularemia as a mild disease. It may be in some instances, but serious complications may ensue, chief of which involves the lungs [pneumonia]. We can do more in preventing the disorder than in cure, as no completely neutralizing serum is available although blood from a person who has recovered is helpful.

Hunters should be cautioned not to bring home, sell, or use animals that appear sluggish, dopey, or that will not run on sight. Furthermore, carcasses found in the woods or fields should not be touched except to bury them. No one should pocket a rabbit's foot "for luck," especially from a freshly killed animal.

If home care is given a patient, scrupulous cleanliness must be exercised by those engaged in nursing procedures. If the gland nodules are incised all soiled dressings should be burned.

Recovery cannot be hurried and it is far wiser to remain in bed at the outset than to be obliged to fight a relapse. Laboratory examinations of the blood will confirm the diagnosis. These should be performed routinely should the cause of a persistent or stepladder temperature be obscure. All too frequently tularemia is called "flu" and occasionally a long drawn out case is regarded as tuberculosis.

NITS IN CHILD'S HAIR.

Mrs. J. H. writes: I have used various remedies for nits in my child's hair, but the condition is as bad as ever. Is there any sure cure?

REPLY.

Perhaps your daughter is being reinfected constantly through contact with playmates. Lice are stubborn pests and will resist removal. Thorough cleansing, followed by the use of a fine comb, is essential. Send a stamped addressed envelope for explicit directions.

CROOKED NOSE.

T. W. W. writes: What causes a crooked nose? Is straightening it a dangerous operation?

REPLY.

Some injury, such as a blow, may result in a deformity of the nasal appendage. The bones may be fractured or the cartilage displaced. In skilled hands corrective surgery is not dangerous.

ESTATE PROBATE.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A certain piece of property [four lots] was left to two heirs, a son and daughter. There was no will.

1. The father's name and the son's name are identical. Both heirs are in accordance as to the disposal of the property.

2. Does the property have to be probated before it can be sold?

3. Would the title be clear if the purchaser were persuaded to waive probate on the condition that the signature of each of the heirs was affixed to the bill of sale? A. J. W.

1. This is immaterial.

2. Probate would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title to real estate, but if the value is small and you do not contemplate an early sale, you might be able to find a purchaser who would waive the requirement.

3. We do not understand your question. If there was anything for the purchaser to waive, this would be another way of saying the title was not clear.

INDICTS JEFFERSON'S STATE.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Thomas Jefferson honored Virginia more than any other of her sons except George Washington, but Virginia, one of the greatest and most ungrateful of states, has not honored the author of our Declaration of Independence. His neighbors permitted him to die destitute and his family to be driven by poverty from their home.

No state in the Union has furnished more great men than Virginia; none has done so little to honor them.

Citizens of other states have been generous to the university Jefferson founded, but the legislature of Virginia up to 1905 had shown a penurious policy toward it. Up to this time I find that Jefferson's name appears only once on the map of Virginia, and that was in Powhatan county, where the federal government [not the state] named the postoffice after Jefferson. In contrast to this I find that twenty-three other states have counties [one in Illinois] named after Jefferson; forty-five other states have christened cities and towns in honor of his name.

Now I leave it to some one from Virginia to say what monuments it has erected, what hospitals, libraries, or parks it has named after Jefferson. Will some one page Mr. Carter Glass?

LUCIUS BARNETT.

DISTINCTIVELY AMERICAN.

Culver, Ind., Nov. 24.—May I express my appreciation of the first of your series of articles on military schools by Philip Kinsley appearing in today's TRIBUNE.

The private military school is a distinctively American institution. Foreign countries have no equivalent. Marshal Foch remarked on this fact on his visit to America.

The idea of the nongovernmental military school was pioneered by Norwich university in Vermont and by the Virginia Military institute in the Old Dominion state, geographically and traditionally divergent.

Each of these institutions sought to add to an academic curriculum in preparation for civil life some of the by-products of military training which they deemed would be as useful to the citizens as to the soldiers of a democracy—disciplined democratic ideals, honor, and a deep sense of duty. I congratulate you on your patriotic foresight in directing attention to such institutions at a time when their teachings are so vital.

REV. PERKINS DISSENTS.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—The untruth and distortion with which you handle the news has never been equaled. I am so disgusted I am canceling my order. With your usual capacity for telling untruths you connect the government investigation of the milk monopoly with your imaginary government drive to take over all business. I for one am highly delighted that we have at last been able to elect officials who would really do something to a monopoly which pays the farmer 2 or 3 cents for a quart of milk and charges us 10 or 12.

REV. HAVEN PERKINS.

HELL A GRAVE REALITY.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—I am a regular reader of your paper, but disliked your glib reference to "hell" in the cartoon this morning. Undoubtedly many of your other readers also believe in the existence of a "hell," since it is a grave reality, and your somewhat scornful reference to it is distasteful to us. A. D.

IN DEFENSE OF DIRECT SELLING.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Apparently your correspondent's [I. E. D.] opinion on direct selling is limited to those, as he calls them, "unscrupulous manufacturers and jobbing concerns in direct selling to the consumer."

Actually, direct selling is a two billion dollar industry. It means the sale of reliable merchandise to storekeepers, dealers, individual men in offices, shops, etc., and to the housewife by equally reliable independent salespeople of both sexes.

This huge industry keeps factories going in hundreds of towns scattered throughout the country. It makes pay rolls for factory and office workers and, even more important, it enables hundreds of thousands of decent, law abiding citizens to maintain themselves without overburdening already sorely overtaxed relief rolls.

These men and women are for the most part residents of the community in which they work. They are among the local merchants' best cash customers. They support local schools, churches, and charities. To sum up, they add to the community rather than draining it, as seems to be the prevalent inclination of such a large proportion of our population.

If, therefore, direct selling as it really is—and not as I. E. D. mistakenly believes it to be—were to be abolished there would be untold national loss. Factories would shut down, throwing more people out of work, and the hundreds of thousands of citizens, many of them past the forty mark in life, which makes it difficult for them to either secure or hold a wage or salaried job, would be deprived of their livelihood and forced to accept private or public charity to keep body and soul together.

RUINOUS TO FRUIT GROWERS.

South Haven, Mich., Nov. 23.—Recently R. M. Carleton criticized the United States department of agriculture for raising the lead tolerance on apples to .025. This was justified.

This whole deal has been of vast harm to the fruit growers. When you wash apples at picking time you take off nature's "bloom" that keeps the fruit in storage. Second, the law cannot be administered fairly—the little grower is penalized because he cannot afford the necessary equipment.

This deal could have been handled fairly by teaching consumers to wash their fruit before eating.

ANOTHER BRIEF FOR CATS.

Beverly Hills, Chicago, Nov. 25.—I am in accord with F. Mott of Benton Harbor on the subject of cats. We had a tortoise shell which kept the neighborhood free from rats. Later when her kittens were old enough she tried to teach them the art.

She never molested the birds. Some of the bolder ones picked at the food in her dish while she ate. She taught her offspring not to annoy them. Often, lying in a sunny spot in the yard, she would watch the young ones romp in amused tolerance. Sometimes the flutterings of a bird would entice one of them to play with it, as a kitten will with a moving object. But a terrible meowrrr from the mother was enough to stop the mischievous one in its tracks.

Squirrels, too, abound here; fat, well-fed fellows, and although they are rodents, they had no doubt earned the respect of our feline. At least she was quite unconcerned about them.

But the nice little boy next door had a gun. He thought nothing of shooting down cardinals, sparrows, and cutting snakes in half to watch them slowly die. That was fun. Finally, after years, they took the gun away from sonny boy and he himself has vanished from the scene, too. So now wild canaries, grackles, catbirds, and even the poor little Cinderella sparrows and the fat squirrels are finding paradise again in the great oak trees that grow here.

BEVERLY OAKS.

WATCH BRUCE BARTON!

Toledo, O., Nov. 25.—In your recent editorial captioned "New Leaders" you omitted the best name of all—Bruce Barton. There is a party you want to watch in 1940. I have scrapbooked his writings for nearly two years now and he has written more horse sense than all the others combined. What they want in Washington for 1940 is a group who know, instead of guessing, headed by a real leader, and not the bunch of screwy "ismites" who are fumbling around there now. A. D. GRANT.

THE TWO WHO "RAN OUT."

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Why not publish the names, addresses, and party of the two members of the Dies committee who ran out on the rest of the members? It seems to me that the whole country should know those who for party reasons would shirk their duty in this patriotic and much needed work. L. C.

[The members of the Dies committee who "ran out" are Arthur D. Healey [D., Mass.] and John J. Dempsey [D., N. M.].

FATHER COUGHLIN BARRED FROM AIR BY 3 STATIONS

Hundreds Ask Why Priest Failed to Speak.

Cancelation by two local stations of a scheduled broadcast of a radio speech by Father Charles E. Coughlin caused hundreds of radio listeners to make inquiries by telephone yesterday. A New York station also canceled the broadcast. Forty-three other stations throughout the country carried it.

The stations WIND and WJJD decided against airing the priest's speech because of controversial statements he made in a broadcast a week ago Sunday about the Jewish persecutions in Nazi Germany.

Follows Priest on Air.

The controversy began immediately after that broadcast. An announcer for station WMCA in New York City followed Father Coughlin on the air to state that the priest had made some misstatements of fact. The station later requested a copy of yesterday's speech four hours in advance of the broadcast time. When it was not forthcoming, the scheduled talk was canceled. The New York area heard it, however, through WHBI, Newark, N. J.

Meanwhile, the Chicago stations—both of which are owned by Ralph Atlass—requested advance copies of yesterday's address.

In addition, a committee from the Nonsectarian League of Chicago was invited to hear a recording of the speech broadcast a week ago. This group, it is understood, included a leading rabbi, a Catholic clergyman, a Protestant, and a business man. After hearing the speech they stated it contained misstatements, but declined to make a recommendation to the two stations on cancelation.

Cancellation Is Explained.

The management decided not to broadcast the speech after it was too late to stop announcements of it which were to be printed in the Sunday papers. The telephone calls began shortly after 5 p. m., the scheduled time of the broadcast.

The management of station WJJD issued a statement last night explaining that it did not broadcast Coughlin's speech because it was learned that he was repeating much of last week's controversial talk, and also additional statements which the station could not investigate, due to the failure of Father Coughlin's agents to supply the station with an advance script.

In his speech yesterday, which was made from Royal Oak shrine, near Detroit, Father Coughlin declared that he was the victim of a campaign of misrepresentation.

"Last Sunday's address," he said, "was to point out the cause of all persecution—persecution of Christians as well as of Jews. Admittedly, I did attack and will continue to attack the atheistic Jews and the atheistic Gentiles and those who sustain them.

$50,000 FIRE SWEEPS SOUTH CHICAGO STORE; YULETIDE GOODS BURN

Damage estimated at $50,000 was done last night by a spectacular fire that swept through the Scott Variety store at 9118 Commercial avenue, in the heart of the South Chicago shopping district.

Because the fire burned so fiercely and threatened neighboring structures, fire officials sent out a special call for extra equipment. A temperature of 25 degrees hampered firemen. Ice crusts formed, making footholds slippery. Spectators and firemen were sprayed with water when a pipeline burst.

Timothy O'Keefe of engine company 46 was injured when he stepped on a nail. Almost all of the stock in the store, much of it Christmas goods, was destroyed or spoiled. The cause of the fire was not learned. Deputy Marshal Anthony Mullaney said it probably started in the basement.

RIDERS BLAMED FOR MISHAPS ON THRILL DEVICES

The men who make the roller coasters, giant swings, ferris wheels, and other thrill devices which make up an amusement park held their annual dinner last night in the Hotel Sherman.

One of the topics discussed by the manufacturers comprising the American Recreational Equipment association was safety.

"Ninety-five per cent of accidents occurring on amusement park equipment result from carelessness of the customers," said R. S. Uzzell, secretary of the association. "We take every precaution in making equipment foolproof."

The dinner, attended by 100, preceded the opening today of the twentieth annual convention of the National Association of Amusement Parks, Park Pools, and Beaches. Approximately 100 exhibits of amusement inventions are on display.

Routine.

Gypsy Rose Lee, swathed in furs, arrived at a party. Edgar Guest was introduced.

"Miss Hovick, Mr. Guest," said the introducer, calling her by her own name.

"How do you do," said Mr. Guest, unaware of her identity. "Won't you take off your things?"

Annual Intruder.

Our prize nature story for November concerns the sparrow that flew into the home of Miss Anna Thustrut, 320 Wisconsin avenue, Oak Park, and perched on her cuckoo clock. He was sitting there, like the raven on the palid bust of Pallas, when she woke up Thanksgiving morning. When the cuckoo came out he leaned forward curiously to see what was going on. The interesting part of the story is that on last Thanksgiving morning, a year ago, Miss Thustrut woke up to find a sparrow—possibly the same one—sitting on top of her cuckoo clock.

Monkey in the Woodlot.

Our other fauna note this morning: A La Grange resident motoring through the Thanksgiving countryside saw a monkey swinging from a fence into a woodlot sheltering pigs, just west of Lake Forest. Poor little monkey! Hope some one took him in out of the cold.

Playing Picket.

"This House Is Fair to Kids."

Tin Pan Alley Hot Note [from the Andrews sisters]: George Gershwin's mother is giving away autographed pictures of her son, the signature cut from canceled checks and pasted on the picture. . . . Edgar Bergen's Charlie McCarthy is a phony—the original McCarthy is still in a trunk that was left at a hotel in New York City during vaudeville days. Maybe held in New York City, for all we know. . . . Louis Armstrong has changed his pace and has recorded spirituals—Jonah and the Whale and Shadrack—and now has started on the old Bert Williams songs of twenty years ago.

Tenant's Plea.

Mr. Marks,

According to my english pronunciation, which couldn't be understood by you, I preferred my writing, begging your loving kindness to respond to this offering, with the hope that as your mind be purified with compassion toward the voice of this supplication coming into you, by the Earth's lowest existence, calling you, as to grant me just a simple favor, which favor under my thinkful investigation, I found it to be inaggravatable into you.

Mr. Marks—found myself in inconvenient position for a short only time, I took recourse back into you asking to prolong unto me a little more time for the rent, as to let it start from 31st to the month of September, instead of the 10th, which is in the lease, it because I have a plan to make this little place very attractive internally and externally and I need to have a little more time according to my income's insufficiency.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Some young girls who know their beauty kits tell us that their idea of a perfect Christmas gift is the weekend kit put out by one of the beauty houses. This has been on the market for a couple of Christmases, but this year it has makeup accessories tucked inside and has more lure than ever.

This bag [it's a decided bargain] is seven inches long and stands almost five inches high. The case is fabricoid in an alligator grain that would fool you pretty easily, or, if you prefer, airplane cloth. It has a washable lining.

Inside are preparations for either dry or oily skin: cleansing cream, foundation cream; tonic, a soothing lotion to prevent and alleviate chapping; face powder, lipstick, rouge and eye shadow. It's a miracle of compactness; somehow they even manage to tuck in a comb, a mirror and cleansing tissues.

This bag is an ideal gift for college girls or for business girls, who can tuck it into their desks.

Amusing Ballet Traces Career of Lady's Dress

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The third and last of the world premières promised by the Littlefield ballet took place in the Civic Opera house last night when "Ladies' Better Dresses" was performed before an audience which found plenty of opportunities for applause and for delighted chuckles.

In four short scenes the ballet follows the fortunes of a dress creation from the moment when it burgeons in the designer's mind to the time when the cut-rate stores have copied it and have succeeded in placing it on the back of every female in town.

The cutting room, where we meet the designer, the fashion editor, and various lesser dignitaries, remains the background for the second scene as well. Here Choreographer Littlefield has succeeded in creating, in the person of the night watchman, another of her first rate comic characters. This goatish fellow, entering the workroom in the dead of night, lavishes his love on an unresponsive dress form. He is not discouraged by the fact that there are no ears to hear his sweet nothings, no eyes to burn with passion. His light o' love, alas, is headless. Carl Cleighton did a wonderful job of the characterization, handling skilfully the somewhat naughty Mallarmé suggestions inherent in the part.

The scene in the showroom offers countless chances for bizarre and imaginative costuming and for more of Miss Littlefield's smiling satire on human weaknesses. The choreography of the whole, although considerable miming enters into it, has a nice fluidity and a profusion of eye filling stage pictures and nervous motion. Herbert Kingsley's music has a clever rowdiness about it.

Albert Goldberg, conducting the Illinois Symphony orchestra in the Great Northern theater yesterday afternoon, gave a Harty transcription of some unfamiliar Handel pieces the benefit of a new found flexibility and ease. He later presented his own first clarinetist, Carmen Schiavone, in a fluent and gracious performance of a Mozart concerto. Still later there was the Leo Kopp Symphony in One Movement, a work characterized by modern feeling for rhythmic possibilities and by a humor which quite charmed the audience.

Lewis White, bass, sang a scholarly program at the Chicago Woman's club theater in a voice whose power is ample, and whose texture is virile without being too rough.

BJOERLING RECITAL

BY CECIL SMITH.

At the Saturday afternoon opera matinée of "Aïda" a short, rotund young man sat in a box listening with rapt concentration to the singing of Beniamino Gigli. Twenty-four hours later this same young man, whose name is Jussi Bjoerling, sang from the stage of the Civic Opera house in song recital, in a manner scarcely less stirring than that of Mr. Gigli.

A year ago Mr. Bjoerling made his American operatic debut with the Chicago City Opera company. A large audience was on hand yesterday to celebrate his return to Chicago. The American Daughters of Sweden took a particular interest in the occasion, for the concert was a benefit for them.

The program touched upon German songs by Beethoven, Schubert, and Strauss, Scandinavian songs by Sjögren and Sibellius, and several standard operatic airs. Unusually musical accompaniments were provided by Harry Ebert, and Franz Bodfors, Evanston pianist, appeared as assisting artist in a group of solos.

Still only 27, Mr. Bjoerling is one of the white hopes of tenor singing of the future. His solid, manly voice rounds out into an almost baritone quality in the lower portion and merges smoothly into a dynamic and exciting top register. He sings with ease, with constant tonal beauty, and with a gift for restraint as well as rafter-smashing. On the interpretative side he has not yet come to full maturity, but he is deeply responsive to all the musical meanings he now discovers, and needs only longer experience to become a first class artist in every regard.

In an all-modern piano recital at the Studebaker theater yesterday afternoon Cara Verson gave the first Chicago hearing of Serge Prokofieff's Fifth sonata, and also recognized the twentieth anniversary of the death of Claude Debussy by a group of his impressionist works. Works by Hindemith, Kodaly, Turina, Copland, and others gave immense enjoyment to a large audience.

Severe illness causes Kirsten Flagstad to cancel her contract to appear with the Chicago City Opera company in "Die Walküre" tonight. The opera will be retained, and Dorothee Manski of the Metropolitan Opera association will substitute as Brünnhilde.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 27.—If you doubt that "the play's the thing," consider that "Boy Meets Girl" laid a box-office egg. "Angels with Dirty Faces," also with Cagney and O'Brien, is cleaning up. . . . Brenda Frazier, most-publicized debutante in the country, has rejected all movie offers. Her ma is going to rush the youngster to Europe or Honolulu to stop all the publicity. . . .

He no likes flying at this time of year.

For-the-rich-they-sing item: Joe Schenck and the Hollywood syndicate bidding for Arrowhead Springs hotel paid $20,000 for an option on the property. As a result, if they pick up the option they'll get $400,000 insurance for the hotel destroyed by the forest fire. . . . Edgar Bergen's overworked: He's flirting with Helen Wood, Florence Heller and Kay St. Germaine, and then there's Charlie McCarthy. . . . When Andrea Leeds, at the Crosby broadcast, hugged Joe Graham in the N. B. C. control room she didn't know the audience was looking right at 'em. With Miss Leeds on crutches from badminton, and Bing on crutches from ice-skating, the broadcast looked like a G. A. R. reunion. . . . Madeleine Lee, the girl you hear on the Amos 'n' Andy broadcast, is being wooed by Harrison Holloway, radio biggie. He's the one who refused to air movie premieres on the ground that "A can of celluloid is no different from a can of beans."

Dorothy Lamour and Mort Millman, her original manager, have kissed and made up after a lengthy feud. . . . Wendy Barrie laid up with a cold. . . . Mrs. Harry Brand gets out of the hospital Monday. The wife of the 20th Century-Fox publicity chief got more baskets of flowers than any glamor girl who ever has been bedded there. . . . Lili Damita tells Londoners she is expecting Sir Stork; Errol Flynn denies it. They ought to reach an agreement. . . . Grace Hayes' boy, Lynn, will wed Frances Robinson in April. . . . If you have any old clothes, send them to Mrs. Sam Goldwyn, who is turning them over to poor families.

Howard Hughes and Olivia de Havilland billing and cooing. . . . Junior Laemmle dating June Travis. . . . When Fred Astaire finishes "The Castles" in February it will wind up a nine picture deal at RKO. His pictures have grossed about $23,000,000, and that staggering sum of money explains why three other studios already have weighed in with impressive offers. Astaire won't sign anything until he and Phyllis take a five month vacation in Europe, first stop of which will be a visit to his sister in Ireland. . . . U. S. Andrea Leeds introducing "Cardinal Puff-Puff" as a new Hollywood parlor game. Every time you miss you have to take a drink and by the time the evening is over you are nicely goggle-eyed. . . . Marlene Dietrich expected here any day now. With Frank Capra tied up for "Gentleman from Mississippi," Harry Cohn will have to talk things over with her. She's asking $100,000 per flicker.

"Thank God for America," Irving Berlin's new song, won't make him a dime. He's going to turn over the money to the German refugees. . . . "You Can't Take It with You" will gross more than $4,000,000. . . . That English beauty you see with David Niven isn't a romance; a friend of the family spending a fortnight in America. Niven insists he has only two loves: "Goldwyn and golf." . . . Bessie Love off to England for stage work. . . . Jack Warner, Hal Wallis, and Charlie Einfeld in from New York Dec. 5. . . . Soviet Film Attacks Persecution

"PROFESSOR MAMLOCK."

Produced by Ankino.
Adapted from story by Frederick Wolf.
Featuring S. Mzhinski.
Presented at the Sonotone theater.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Jesus was a Jew."

The thought haunts you as you watch Prof. Mamlock's persecution by the Nazis.

"Professor Mamlock," barred for a time by the censors, is showing to huge audiences at the Sonotone. It is an adaptation of a work by Friedrich Wolf, a scientist harried during the earlier stages of the Nazi "purge," and tells the story of a Jewish doctor, famous head of a German clinic and one time winner of a medal for bravery in action during the world war.

Prof. Mamlock wants no part in the general turmoil. He asks only to be let alone, that he may serve humanity in his hospital. . . . He is made a victim of Nazi hatred, thrown out of his institution, beaten and humiliated. . . . Brought back to operate on a Nazi chief of staf who will allow no underlings to touch him, he is promised protection and freedom, but, the operation over, persecution starts again. . . .

This is a thoughtfully executed film, atmospherically backgrounded and intelligently titled. It was made in Russia and all players are Russians.

'On Borrowed Time' Closes Saturday; 'Susan,' Dec. 31

"On Borrowed Time," the comedy-fantasy of life, death, childhood and old age starring Dudley Digges at the Grand Opera house, will end its Chicago career Saturday night. "Susan and God," the Rachel Crothers comedy at the Harris, with Gertrude Lawrence heading the cast, will close Dec. 31.

Buds and Elders Wait Postman--and Invitations

BY JUDITH CASS.

INVITATIONS in the mail make the most exciting reading these brisk late autumn days, and with the Christmas holidays just around the corner the postman's daily visits eagerly are anticipated by sub-debutantes as well as debutantes and their elders.

Mrs. William Kennard Kenly, who has just returned from spending the summer at her home in Manchester, Vt., will give a dinner and Princeton Triangle club party for her granddaughter, Mary Ann Wyman, on the night of Dec. 27. The dinner will be given at the Casino, where the Triangle members will dance and have tea that afternoon with the debutantes of the season at a party Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Seipp and Edwin Seipp Jr. are giving for their debutante niece and cousin from Middleburg, Va., Miss Mellta Seipp. After the show Mrs. Kenly will take her young guests to dance at one of the hotels, and the Trianglers and the debutantes will meet again to dance at a ball the Charles E. Peaces are giving for their bud, Miss Sara, at the Blackstone.

Warned by debutantes of past seasons, the buds who go tea-dancing with the Trianglers on the afternoon of the 27th will make a point of arriving early at the Seipps' party if they want to meet the performers, for the young men from Princeton will have to leave the tea in plenty of time to get ready for the performance in the Civic Opera house.

Parents to Give Party for Betty Gillespie.

Another holiday party planned for the sub-debutante group is a dinner and hocky party Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gillespie will give for their daughter, Betty, on Dec. 22. Miss Gillespie, a student at the Girls' Latin school, will enter Bryn Mawr next fall. Miss Wyman attends the Ethel Walker school at Simsbury, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cooper Jr. have cards out for a dinner on Dec. 10 for their children and the other girls and boys who are members of the Dance club. The dinner will be at the Churchill hotel preceding the second dance of the club, which meets at the Girls' Latin school.

Daniel Lawlor, Brayton Slade, and Ralph Swanson have sent out invitations to a party next Sunday for their good friend, Paul W. Guenzel, and his bride of last September, the former Elizabeth Skinner of St. Paul, Minn. The three young bachelors are entertaining at cocktails and dancing from 4 until 7 o'clock at the Racquet club.

Rose Dickinson Hostess At a Party Tomorrow.

A party that has not been planned for any one person is a luncheon Miss Rose Dickinson is giving tomorrow at the Saddle and Cycle club.

Mrs. James M. Hopkins and Mrs. George Rasmussen are giving a tea tomorrow afternoon at Mrs. Hopkins' apartment for the advertising committee for the benefit the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society is giving on Dec. 19, the opening performance of the Ballet Russe at the Auditorium theater.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, chairman of the benefit, is leaving for New York tomorrow to make plans with Julius Fleischman and the manager of the ballet company for a supper party to be given for the members of the ballet after the benefit performance.

Arts Club to Hear Chamber Music Trio.

Through Mrs. Charles H. Swift's generosity Arts club members will hear a program by the Cologne Chamber Music trio after a buffet supper at 7:30 next Sunday night. The trio, which uses old musical instruments, is well known in England, Italy, and France, but is touring the United States for the first time. Its members are Karl Hermann Pillney, harpsichordist; Karl Maria Schwamberger, viola da gamba, and Reinhold Fritsche, who plays the tranverse flute, and the recorder.

Junior League Issues Invitations for Talk.

Ten members of the arts department of the Chicago Junior league have worked their fingers almost to the bone making by hand the 600 invitations the league is issuing to a talk Mrs. Ford R. Carter will give on Dec. 6 to members and their guests. The invitations are printed in red ink on beautiful silver backed paper, impressed with a handsome silver seal.

Mrs. Carter's lecture on "How to be Chic Though Cheery," deals with Christmas decor, and from her chat the bright young members of the league will get many hints on Christmas decorations that are unusual, whether simple or elaborate. The talk will be given at 11:30 o'clock in the Tower room of the Drake, with luncheon afterward in the league headquarters.

The artists of the arts committee are Mrs. Marshall G. Sampsell, chairman; Mrs. Theron Chapman, Mrs. Sydney P. Waud, Mrs. Daniel Leonard, Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III., Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, Mrs. George M. Silverthorne Jr., Mrs. William A. P. Watkins, Mrs. John P. Wilson Jr., and Mrs. Alfred M. Wolfe.

Emerson House Board Members to Be Salesgirls.

For a second time the youthful board of Emerson Settlement house is planning to make Christmas and wedding gift shopping simple for its friends. The board has taken over the collectors' corner at A. Starr Best's for the week of Dec. 5 to 10, during which a percentage of the sales will go to the settlement.

Mrs. Morrison Waud, Miss Elisabeth Dewes, and Miss Mary Lou Laird each will be in charge of the corner one day, with a group of assistants. Mrs. Philip Maher and Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler will set tables, using some of the attractive antiques in the shop. The latter's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert T. Wheeler, also will be assisting.

Mrs. William M. Collins Jr. is president of the board. The settlement house recently moved into its new quarters in Wood street. The board is planning a housewarming tea within the next two weeks.

Mrs. Alice H. Patterson will open her home at 209 Lake Shore drive for a meeting of the American Friends of China at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Freda Utley, China correspondent of the London News Chronicle, will relate her recent experiences in China.

Lecture Recital Thursday at Woman's Athletic Club.

The Woman's Athletic club of Chicago will enjoy a lecture-recital by Paul Leyssac at 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning. Mr. Leyssac will give "It's Perfectly True!" and other stories from Hans Christian Anderson.

The sextet from the Children's Civic theater will give a musical program at a tea Mrs. Charles S. Davis is giving for the Lake Shore Chamber Music society today. The party will be at 4 o'clock in Mrs. Davis' apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive.

Horace E. Newcomet has been appointed chairman of the local University of Pennsylvania alumni committee which is arranging for the Chicago performance on Dec. 28 of the Mask and Wig club's 51st annual production, "All Around the Town." John Dern is assistant chairman.

Aids Hollywood Ball

MRS. ROBERT H. HARVEY. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. ROBERT H. HARVEY is one of the many young women assisting the architects in planning their Hollywood ball, to be given next Friday night at the Drake. The party is certain to be one of the gayest of the season, for the architects made a name for themselves as ball givers six years ago, when they staged the successful Latin Quarter ball. Applications for invitations to the ball may be made either at the ball committee headquarters at 333 North Michigan avenue or at the Drake or Ambassador hotels. John Root, general chairman, announced Saturday.

Happy Throngs Get Early Start at Gift Buying

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The rush is on! There isn't a spot around the town that hasn't been decked in holiday attire from the clocks encased in glittering silver to the smallest showcase festive with scarlet ribbon.

Gift strongholds, crammed to the edges, are staffed with good looking femininity wearing bright smocks. More loot has been gathered than can be told. You have to see to believe the lavish displays. The shops must have been collecting the stuff for the last year.

Farsighted shoppers have taken the town by storm, judging by the first crowds, with their gleaming eyes, furrowed brows, and clutching fingers. The shoppers are barging about on escalators, in elevators, and on stairways. The Christmas buying binge is on with double, even triple speed.

Everything must be ready.

The assortments would please the most demanding gift buyer. All you have to do is to take your list and do your Christmas shopping when the fever first strikes the town. It's fun, it's exciting, it's the big chance of the year to leave at dawn and straggle back at dusk, armed to the hat with bundles. No mere mortal can long resist this annual frenzy.

Mittens, sweaters, and fuzzy hats are good attractions, with the mittens 'way out in front. Decorative affairs have hectic embroidery against such mouth watering colors as canary yellow, bayberry green, chartreuse, magenta, sapphire blue, old gold, raspberry, and russet. This eye catching bait is being taken by the first shoppers.

Every one likes mittens; they rival bedroom slippers as the universal gift. This year's mittens are embroidered with bleeding hearts, with nursery book animals, with skiing figures, and with unusually gaudy flowers.

Fuzzy hoods, such as fleecy duets of mittens and hood, and the angoras teamed in the same manner come in white, high colors, and pastels. They're worn for dress parade as well as daytime, or for sportswear. Tagged with extremely modest price marks, they go out almost as fast as they're unpacked.

Her Second Choice

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright, 1938. By Elizabeth York Miller.]

INSTALMENT I.
AN OPPOSED ENGAGEMENT.

From where she lay in bed Nora Stacy could see the chimneys of Fairways poking up over the trees, and a window in the tower catching fire from the morning sun.

She smiled to herself a little mischievously. It was a mercy, in her opinion, that Mr. Robert Matherson, good looking and reputedly rich young bachelor, had not bought Fairways, say a year ago, or her life at this precise moment would hardly be worth living. There wouldn't have been any holding Aunt Dorothy, who even now was barely under control.

Nora had only met this eligible young man half a dozen times, and it was a slightly unwelcome surprise to her as well as somewhat of a mystery that he seemed to have fallen in love with her. She really must let him know about Jim in some casually kind way.

If only Jim had given her the usual token, then it would have simplified the matter. But Jim had had no money to spend on rings before he went away, and perhaps by now he had sort of forgotten that it was usual for an engaged girl to wear a distinguishing sign which bade all would-be trespassers to keep off the grass.

But it did seem a little odd that Robert Matherson had been attracted to her so quickly, thought Nora, for if rumor spoke truly he had had a wide experience with women and could have chosen from a varied selection had he wished to marry as well as settle down. She was not unduly modest about herself, but there was something just a little headlong and queer about the Matherson man's attentions that she could not quite fathom.

Mrs. Callender, who was Aunt Dorothy, called Nora her little country mouse, which was hardly the right description for this young, provocative creature now trying to make up her mind to get out of bed. Nora, in fact, was dangerously lovely and more of a panic to her girl friends than a whole battalion of mice.

Tawny-haired, hazel-eyed, with a nose that could look a little disdainful if necessary, and a mouth so innocently seductive that it constituted a real peril to the unwary, she was one of those girls whom no country hamlet can bury forever. And as it happened she was buried in Green Mallows entirely by her own choice.

Hidden by the trees between her aunt's cottage and Fairways stood Malbury house, the home of Col. and Mrs. Murdock, and Jim Murdock to whom Nora was engaged was their only son. At the moment Jim was far away, in Calcutta to be precise, where he had a post in an English bank.

A long story lay behind their engagement, a story mostly of guerrilla warfare with poor Aunt Dorothy in the guise of the enemy.

Mrs. Callender claimed to be psychic and in proof of this quality advanced the theory that Jim Murdock was not good enough for Nora—not rich enough, perhaps she meant—and, "Mark my words, Nora, I've watched that boy grow up and he hasn't enough stuffing in him to fill a goose."

Nora had not only watched Jim grow up, but she had actually grown up with him, for both of them had spent their school holidays in Green Mallows.

She was so much in love with Jim that it was like an ache to be separated from him, but she was getting her trousseau ready, and in the spring was going out to Calcutta to be married, however much Aunt Dorothy protested.

She closed her eyes now to bring Jim back to her. When she did that she could see him almost as plainly as though he was standing there. She would grant Aunt Dorothy that Jim's good looks were of the rakish order. With his impudent moustache and laughing eyes, and the way he had of getting pretty much anything he wanted just by flashing a grin at you, he was like some swashbuckling hero of romance.

Yes, and Nora would grant Aunt Dorothy the fact that Jim had tried his hand at a number of jobs that never seemed to last and that it was partly true he had accepted this post in Calcutta, offered most opportunely by a family friend, because he had got into a little scrape over a motor car borrowed without the leave of its owner.

But Nora knew that that had been only because Jim's own car happened to be out of order when he had to go somewhere in a hurry, and that he would have asked Mr. Fisher's permission if only Mr. Fisher had been around at the time. Well, of course it was unlucky that he had had the accident and smashed up the car.

"Nora, it's nearly eight o'clock!"

"Yes, I'm getting up," she called back, hastily making good her word. There was so much to do she had no business to lie day-dreaming in bed.

They could only afford a daily woman two mornings a week, and although the cottage was small it seemed to require a lot of attention.

Mrs. Callender was living for the day—foretold by her psychic sense—when by some means not specified her slender income would swell to generous proportions. Her own efforts were not likely to bring about this miracle and Nora—the orphaned daughter of her brother—sometimes felt with a twinge of conscience that it was up to her, a charity child of long standing, to pay back a little of the debt she owed her aunt.

But Nora had not been allowed to discover and practice any talents, except housework in a small way and cheese paring in a big one. And, of course, she was really the disappointment of Aunt Dorothy's life. She ought to have saved herself up for a rich man—a man like Mr. Matherson—instead of throwing away all that charm on Jim Murdock whom even she was forced to admit was unlikely even to be rich in the meaning of the word as understood by the Mathersons of this world.

"There's your letter," said Aunt Dorothy, with a faint sniff.

Yes, there was her letter from Jim, now a little overdue.

Nora had seen it lying by her plate the minute she entered the dining room and she had seen, too, that it was another thin one. Although her fingers itched to open it, she slipped it into the pocket of her cardigan to await an opportunity when she would be by herself.

"Good heavens!" she exclaimed. "Where did those come from?"

But she knew even before Mrs. Callender had time to tell her. Grapes and peaches, heaped high in the silver bowl on the sideboard. How grand they looked! There was only one hothouse in this neighborhood that grew them like that—the one at Fairways.

"Mr. Matherson's chauffeur brought them just as I was opening the door to take in the milk," said Mrs. Callender, in a tone of reproach.

Nora knew what her aunt was thinking, so perhaps she was psychic, too.

If only her niece didn't happen to be engaged to that good-for-hardly-anything Jim Murdock, it would be easy enough for her to hook Robert Matherson.

"They say he's had Fairways done up so you'd hardly know the place."

Aunt Dorothy was a plumpish old woman with pendulous cheeks that quivered like jellies under stress of emotion and eyes that reminded Nora of a bloodhound's when they wore that woebegone disillusioned look.

"I hope he hasn't spoiled it," said Nora brightly.

"Of course he hasn't. If he hasn't got good taste of his own, Mr. Matherson is the sort of man who has sense enough to buy it."

"Yes, you can buy pretty much anything these days," she said, adding under her breath, "except love."

"I can't think why you don't like him," murmured Mrs. Callender.

Nora could afford to smile and exert considerable forbearance. The war was over, but poor Aunt Dorothy did not seem to know when she was beaten.

"But I do like him," Nora protested. "I think Mr. Matherson is one of the nicest men I have ever met. Only—I don't happen to be in love with him. Probably he's just being kind and neighborly and doesn't mean a thing, but I think the next time I see him I'll drop a little hint about Jim. . . . You do want me to be happy, don't you, darling?"

"That's just the point," Aunt Dorothy retorted grimly. "I feel it in my bones that you won't be happy with Jim Murdock. I've said so all along."

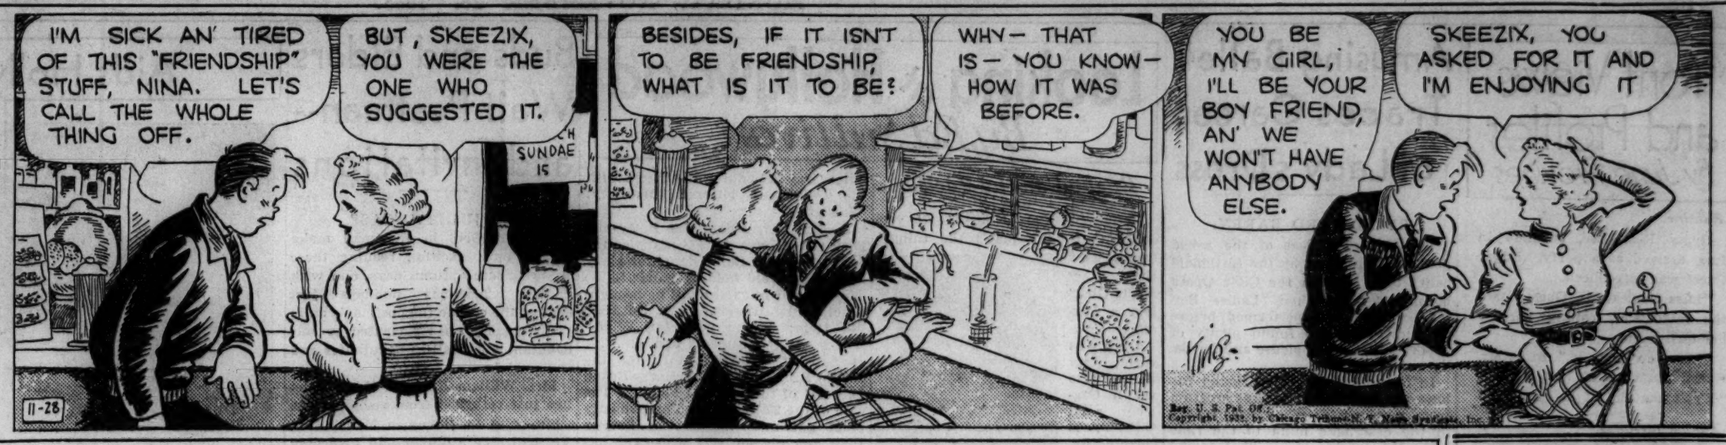
GASOLINE ALLEY—AREN'T WOMEN PECULIAR!



WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Woman's Crowning Glory

A Door Closed Softly

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright, 1938, By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

INSTALMENT LXI.
A CHRISTMAS PRESENT.

Elizabeth rubbed her cheek against David's hands. "But how did you find me? Tell me!"

"Not now. Only this, Betsy. It's all right. Everything. Got that?"

"Everything? Not everything, David?"

"I've said it. Totally and absolutely okay. Does it hurt you to breathe?" She considered. "No. Not much. Why should it?"

He made a gulping sound. "Keep still," he bade. "I'll call Colin. O, yes, he's here, and Alison. We're all together again—and a nurse."

"A nurse?" Somehow this did not astonish her, but hadn't there been other people? O, well, let it go . . . "David—wait. I'm remembering. My bag. Do you see it? Brown . . ."

There was a brown suede bag on the dressing table. He laid it by her, but she told him to look inside.

"We won't wait till Christmas. A pipe. For you."

"A pipe?" His voice had that queer roughness again. "This it?"

"Yes. I'm glad it's still there. Is it a good one? O! I do feel sleepy . . ."

Just skirted the brink. Peril still threatened, but if a mind at peace could draw her to safety . . .

It did. By evening hope took solid form, and on the third day a portion of the truth could be made known to her, suitably veiled. Fanny was dead. She expected it. Poor Fanny! And most bewilderingly she, Elizabeth, would probably come in for the money.

David had grown so formal, so aloof! Horrid doubts impeded Elizabeth's gallant struggles toward health. Maybe it wasn't her having rather a lot of money. Maybe he was sorry, realizing it had been pity and not the other thing. Invalids lack power to get clear on such points. Drooping again, and Colin looking worried. She had wanted to get well, but now, what was the use?

This afternoon she hadn't slept, only made a pretense. Tears kept running weakly over, having to be hidden. Here was David now, afraid to disturb her. By the window, fingering his new pipe, staring out into the dusk. He had come to say good-by. Catching a night train to Glasgow—to be gone nearly a month. A stiff, embarrassed good-by it would be. Just touching her hand, nothing more. Could her pride let her bear it?

"I can't see you," she complained. "Come nearer. Kneel down . . . David, do you remember a skinny little kid too shy to beg you to go swimming with her? You never knew she worshiped you—did you, David? How you'd have laughed! But she did—and she went on doing it. Ever wondered why you got a bid to her coming-out party? Why she cut an important date to slip off in your car? She hoped, you see, you might think she's turned out a sort of nice girl—after Paris and things . . ."

Her eyes had blazed. She felt her body crushed as his lips closed down on her own to linger interminably . . .

On the landing, Alison shook herself crossly.

"O!" she muttered. "I do want my home!"

"Is that your reaction?" Colin's blue eye rested on her inscrutably. "Mine's this," and folding her strongly to him he kissed her in thorough-going fashion.

"O!"

"O . . .!" She gave a cry, part laugh, part sob, yet now, still startled, she found herself snuggled close to a tweed shoulder. "And to think," she blurted disgracefully, "I've been jealous of that poor orphan child."

"Elizabeth? In God's name when?"

"Off and on," she mumbled. "Till this second. Do you despise me?" He held her off, examining her.

"And who told you, Doctor Ladbroke, I had any such notion?"

"My mistake, Miss Young! Yes, I daresay you're better off as you are—not that I'll have many cases as absorbing as this one. So you won't face the sausage and mash?"

"Idiot! It's you."

"Life-saver," he murmured, tenderly stroking her cheek. "Always that, aren't you? Which reminds me, I've never thanked you properly for the handy work with the gun."

"So you're taking this way. Listen, Colin! You aren't just swept off your moorings by relief and . . . and seeing those two?"

"Am I?" he teased. "I wonder . . ."

"Think hard! she commanded. "And don't forget it's your last chance. I'd pull my oar, of course—and like doing it."

"O?" He kissed her again. "Well! That ought to give us solid matter to fight for some time to come."

Ices and sherbets made with water may appear in any of three places in a dinner menu. They may, if they aren't too sweet, act as appetizer; they may accompany the meat course, or they may be dessert. A light dessert usually is much appreciated after a heavy meal.

The tomato ice I would recommend for either appetizer or meat accompaniment, and the other three frozen fruit concoctions in this column may be served with the dinner or as its dessert.

Grape Sherbet.

[Serves Six.]

1 cup sugar
1½ cups water
1 pint grape juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 egg white

Boil sugar and water together for five minutes. Cool and add lemon and grape juice. Freeze to a mush in refrigerator tray. Remove to a chilled bowl and beat until smooth. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Return to tray and continue to freeze until hard, stirring occasionally.

Orange Ice.

[Freezer.]

3 cups water
1½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Grated rind of one orange
2 cups orange juice

Boil sugar and water together for five minutes. Add orange rind and let stand an hour. Add fruit juices and freeze, using one part salt to three parts ice.

Pineapple juice, grape juice, and apricot or peach nectar may be substituted for the orange juice in this recipe to make ices of other flavors.

Tomato Ice.

[Serves Six.]

2 cups tomato juice
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon onion juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons minced celery leaves
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Green Gage Plum Ice.

[Freezer.]

1½ cups sugar
4 cups water
Juice of 2 lemons

Cook sugar and water together five minutes. Add strained lemon juice and sieved plums. Cool and freeze in a mixture of one part salt to three parts ice.

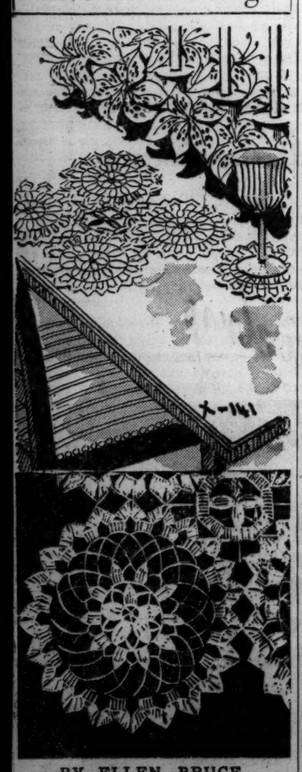
Crocheted Place Doilies Are Made in Dahlia Design



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted place doilies which can be made in an evening are destined for permanent favor. Four round dahlia medallions are required for the center mat illustrated, and a single medallion is used for the coffee cup or water goblet. The pattern is a simple one to create, and an experienced and rapid crochet worker probably could make an entire set in two hours.

For instructions for crocheting the luncheon set in dahlia design No. X-141, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 20 Fifth avenue, New York City.

House Coat a 'Perfect' Gift

HOUSE COAT IN JUNIOR SIZES.

For the young woman friends of your acquaintance, and your sister or daughter as well, there is no more flattering gift than a house coat. Whether she's a school or college girl, a bride, or a business woman, she will relish the idea of an attractive gown in which to lounge and to wear when she is entertaining. With the pattern offered today, this hostess or house coat is simple to make.

It's a flattering design, with lapel collar, huge puffed sleeves, a high and slender waistline, slim hipline and flared skirt. Buttons do their share for chic down the front. All types of fabrics make up well, from the humblest cottons to the most luxurious brocades and metallic silks. Woolen is a good possibility, too, especially for the girl away at school, who must sit up into the wee hours studying after the steam pressure has gone down in the radiators!

Style No. 2917 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19 years. Size 15 requires 5¾ yards of 39 inch material for the house coat.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 45: The bidding was:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

You are East. Dummy and your hand are:

Dummy [North]
♠ A 3
♥ Q 7 4
♦ A Q 10 . . 5 2
♣ 5 3

You [East]
♠ K 10 7 5
♥ K 8 3 2
♦ K J 4
♣ 7 6

West, your partner, originally led the deuce of clubs and declarer won with the eight. Declarer then led the nine of diamonds and passed it. You won with the diamond jack. What card do you return, and why? [Short explanation will suffice.]

LAST MONDAY'S QUESTION.

Question 38: Both sides vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Double	?

You are South and hold:
♠ 9 7 6 5 4 2 ♥ — ♦ 5 4 2 ♣ J 8 4 3
What call do you make?
[Answer at end of this article.]

TODAY'S HAND.

North-South 30, East-West 40 part-score.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Double	1 spade	2 clubs
2 diamonds	Double	2 spades	Pass
2 no trump	Double	Pass	Pass
3 spades	Double [final bid]

"West led his top diamond and East's ace took dummy's queen. East returned his singleton club. South ducked and the nine forced dummy's ace. The contract seemed hopeless, but declarer did not give up. He played a low diamond from dummy and ruffed with the seven of spades. The spade four was led and dummy's queen was taken by East, who returned the queen of hearts. Dummy won, and at this point declarer took time out for a checkup. East's holding could be counted out. He had shown five diamonds and a singleton club [with more than a singleton he would have continued the suit]. Therefore he must hold seven cards in hearts and spades. With five spades he probably would have bid that suit instead of doubling, so in all likelihood he had four spades and three hearts.

"The declarer now went to work. A low diamond was ruffed with the ten of spades and a heart was returned to the ace. A heart was then ruffed with the spade eight. After this the spade king, followed by the three of spades, put East on lead. After cashing his trump trick East faced the disagreeable necessity of leading a diamond from the J 8 up to dummy's K 9. Declarer had found a means of making his contract against what looked like insuperable odds."

ANSWER TO LAST MONDAY'S QUESTION.

Q. No. 38: You should bid one spade. This is the only situation in bridge that permits [demands, rather], a "free" bid which is really a rescue. A minimum [nonjump] bid directly over a takeout double is not strength-showing, but, on the contrary, is an announcement to partner that the bidder is afraid to pass—that he fears a penalty pass by the next opponent. [20 points demerit for passing; 30 points demerit for any other bid, including no trump.]

'Is There a Santa?" Tell Children Truth Without Bluntness

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The very air is full of Santa Claus at Christmas time. Let the children take it all in their stride. When at last they ask you, do not say, "Yes, there is a Santa Claus," quibbling with yourself over its truth—because they will mean when they finally ask that question, "Is Santa Claus a real live person?" You are bound to answer "No," but you can still answer truthfully without reducing it all to cold hard reason.

You can tell them it's like a Christmas fairy tale that children all over the world believe for a few years.

You can tell them if you want to that there was a good Saint Nicholas hundreds of years ago who loved all little children and protected them and gave them presents.

You can tell them Santa is the spirit of Christmas, of fun and jolliness and giving, that he can be real and loved, like Cinderella or the Three Little Pigs or Winnie-the-Pooh or Mickey Mouse.

Some parents have written me interesting descriptions of lovely Christmases in their homes, with Santa only a story and a game from their children's very first knowledge of him, a fact which didn't seem to diminish their zestful pleasure in him.

Brushes of Various Types Help You to Acquire Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

When you and I think of beauty aids, we think of creams and lotions, coiffures, and diets, and such. But how about brushes? Don't they play an important rôle in this modern game of glamor? And couldn't they play a still more active rôle?

Confronted with a whole series of brushes the other day, I, too, was impressed with the number of these bristled implements that help to make us women what we'd like to be. The toothbrush first, the nail brush, the complexion brush, the bath brush, the toenail brush [a comparative newcomer but a good stiff brusher for stirring up soles as well as for getting in, under, and around the cuticle]. We mustn't forget the clothes brush as an active agent if we would be numbered among the neat appearing.

Indeed, brushes for personal use are splendid aids to the beauty that comes with cleanliness. You can get nail brushes in many shapes and sizes, hand brushes, too.

Both unquestionably should be part of the beauty equipment, for if you are a household manager and perform household duties, you'll need them. The long handled bath brush gets between the shoulder blades during a bath or shower, and a round brush with a very short grip is ideal if you can get your mom, maid, or daughter to scrub the area for you. One does not suspect, until the open season for decolletage appears, how many upper back areas are slopped over during tub immersions. It's a mean region to neglect, getting even for the neglect by suddenly appearing as a spotty, powder shot area from blackhead collection. That area should be reached and scrubbed vigorously daily.

The use of a complexion brush is one of those steadily growing practices that experience has taught us are indispensable. Don't believe that it roughens the skin. It scrubs the dirt out of pores and it stirs up circulation, and if you rinse well afterward, with warm and cold water, the skin cannot help but be better.

We needn't go into hairbrushes here. You've been using yours lately or you don't know what's going on in the hair world. But no brush is worth wielding with beauty hope unless it is kept immaculately clean.

MONTY STRATTON SHOOTS SELF; MAY LOSE LEG

BLACKHAWKS BEAT RANGERS, 1-0; TIE FOR LEAGUE LEAD

PISTOL FIRES AS SOX ACE PLACES IT IN HOLSTER

Crawls Half Mile After Accident.

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Surgeons were striving tonight to save the leg of Monty Stratton, 25 year old White Sox pitcher who shot himself accidentally near Greenville today.

A bullet pierced the femoral artery of his right leg when his .32 caliber automatic pistol discharged as he replaced it in a belt holster after shooting at a rabbit. The bullet entered below his hip and lodged near the knee.

Wife Hears Cries for Help.

Stratton, who lives in Greenville, was visiting the farm of his mother, Mrs. L. D. Stratton, eight miles northwest of Greenville. He had gone out alone to practice shooting at a target about a half mile from the house. After shooting himself he crawled to a private road and attracted the attention of his wife, Ethel, who was at the farmhouse 250 yards away, by shouting and waving his cap. Mrs. Stratton drove down the road and picked him up in the family automobile.

Stratton was brought to St. Paul hospital in Dallas, where doctors feared that amputation of his leg might be necessary to save his life. His condition was said to be critical because of loss of blood.

Surgeons removed the bullet from his leg and tied the artery but feared that unless collateral circulation in the leg is established gangrene may set in.

CLUB KEEPS POSTED

Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Sox, was in frequent communication with Dallas last night regarding the condition of Monty Stratton, ace pitcher whose accident yesterday may necessitate amputation of his right leg.

"We are communicating with one of our scouts, Bob Tarleton, who is in Dallas," Grabiner said.

"It was most unfortunate for Monty was one of the best pitchers in the American league. But baseball is secondary now. Our concern is about his health. We are all hoping nothing more serious develops."

Stratton, whose physical setup—he is 6 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 205 pounds—gives him tremendous speed on the mound, has attained pitching stardom in the face of repeated misfortunes. An injured pitching arm, kept him idle throughout the last half of the season in 1937 and a recurrence, in the final west coast exhibition game with the Cubs on March 27, this year, shelved him again until the campaign was almost half gone.

The Club Missed Him.

The Sox finished third in the American league in 1937 and most of their followers believe that, with Monty working the entire schedule in his customary style, the club could have won its first pennant since 1919.

On the same day Stratton was forced to retire last March, Luke Appling, star Sox shortstop and American league batting champion in 1936, was carried from the field with a broken ankle, the result of an unnecessary slide into second base. These two disasters seemed to set in motion all the machinery of misfortune and the team was handicapped throughout the season with injuries to key men. At one stage of the race, only three regulars were able to take the field. Result: A team which had finished third in 1937 dropped to sixth place in 1938.

He Pitched Fifteen Victories.

Despite his times out, Stratton, with a makeshift defense behind him, won fifteen games while losing nine this year to run his major league standing to thirty-six victories and twenty-three defeats.

Stratton, whose home is in Celeste, Tex., May 21, 1913, first attracted the attention of White Sox scouts while pitching for Galveston of the Texas league in 1934. He was called in early that season, but had pitched only three innings, when, because of wildness, he was shipped to Omaha in the Western league for further seasoning. His record there was eight games won and ten lost.

In 1935, still the property of the Sox, he was sent to St. Paul in the American association, where he scored seventeen victories to nine defeats and proved himself ready at last for major league competition. In 1936 his record was five games won and seven lost, a showing which was not indicative of his real pitching skill.

Monty became an American league headliner in 1937, when, despite the injury to his pitching arm, he turned in fifteen victories against only five defeats and an earned run average of 2.40. This figure placed him second in effectiveness to Vernon Gomez of the Yankees. His list of achievements included five shutouts, four three-hit, one five-hit, and three seven-hit games.

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—A goal by Johnny Gottselig less than two minutes from the end of the game gave the Chicago Blackhawks a 1 to 0 victory over the New York Rangers in a National Hocky league contest before 14,750 in Madison Square Garden tonight.

The triumph put the Hawks in a three-way tie for the league leadership with the Boston Bruins and New York Americans. It atoned for the 6 to 4 beating the Chicago team suffered at the hands of the Americans last night and marked the first time this season the Rangers were held scoreless.

Johnny Leads League.

Gottselig's goal made him the leading scorer of the league. It was a beautiful goal, shot as he skated at terrific speed after taking a pass from Joffre Desilets. Goalie Dave Kerr hardly saw the puck.

The game was evenly contested, brilliant hocky alternating with the dullest type of play. Mike Karakas in the Hawk goal and Earl Seibert at defense did yeoman service in stopping the Rangers. Until Gottselig scored, the Hawk forwards seemed ineffective when close to the Ranger goal.

Rangers Start Fast.

Gottselig, Desilets, and Cully Dahlstrom displayed beautiful coördinated team work, keeping Kerr busy. Cecil Dillon, Bryan Hextall, and Murray Patrick of the Rangers brought the crowd to its feet with a flurry of shots which drew from Karakas moments of magnificent goal tending. Bill MacKenzie was penalized for holding Hextall, but the Rangers did little with their advantage.

Karakas Stands His Ground.

Art Coulter skated the length of the ice to test Karakas with a drive at the start of the second period and on the next play the Hawk goalie was roughly shaken in halting a rush by Hextall.

Baldy Northcott got through from the right wing for a dangerous shot but Ranger sallies continued to outnumber those of the Hawks. Mush March was given a penalty for cross checking and the Rangers put five men up the ice.

The Hawks, particularly Seibert and Karakas, formed a defensive phalanx that repulsed all the Rangers could give until March returned.

Things livened up in the third period when Lynn Patrick, Clint Smith, and Dillon got the upper hand for a few moments and peppered Karakas with shots.

The Hawks Get One.

Dahlstrom and Gottselig combined for a nice passing sally and Kerr kicked out the shot. Their efforts finally brought success when Gottselig, taking the puck from Desilets, swept toward the goal at a terrific pace, beating Kerr with his shot and at the same time tripping and sliding on his face. The time was 18:37.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The Cardinals and Cleveland Rams celebrated the closing of the professional football season in Chicago yesterday by entertaining a small party of friends and relatives in Wrigley field. The Cardinals won, 31 to 17, setting two National league records, and tying another in a highly interesting demonstration that combined all the spectacular elements of an important contest.

After spotting the Rams a three point lead in the first period, the Cardinals went ahead on a seventy-two yard touchdown run by Pat Coffee, the forgotten man, who had waited all year for the opportunity to take up where he left off on this same field last season. Shortly after Coffee's superb run, Gaynell Tinsley, who caught seven passes to tie Don Hutson's all time National league record of forty-one for the season, took a twenty-eight yard toss from Dougal Russell and ran seventy yards to a touchdown. His ninety-eight yard gain on the play bettered by one yard the all time National league mark he established in the final game last season when he ran ninety-seven yards in the dark against the Bears.

Patrick Can Kick, Yes Sir!

Frank Patrick, the former Pitt full back completing his first year in the professional league, brought the 2,200 spectators out of their blankets in the third period with a field goal from the 40, and he added the extra points after each of the Cardinals' touchdowns. Phil Dougherty, rookie center from Santa Clara, ran back an intercepted pass twenty-seven yards for a touchdown, also in the third period, and Coffee added the last Cardinal score before the period ended, with an eight yard smash off tackle.

Cleveland's scoring was contributed by Bob Snyder, who kicked the aforementioned field goal; Jim Benton, who celebrated the arrival of twin sons Saturday, with a four yard touchdown run after scooping up a loose ball in the second quarter, and John Drake, once of Purdue, who plunged over from the 3 after Benton had recovered another fumble in the fourth period. Corby Davis and Dick Zoll added the extra points.

Plenty of Cardinal Heroes.

Cleveland was no match for the Cardinals, who looked every inch a major league ball team in achieving their second victory against nine defeats. The Cardinals outgained the Rams and completed ten passes to bring their number of completions to 112, a new National league record, for the season. The old record was 108, established by Green Bay in 1936.

Al Babartsky, the Cardinal's rookie tackle from Fordham, was injured on

A Card Is Trapped, but It Doesn't Matter

Pat Coffee, Cardinal half back, attempts to pass in the second quarter of the game with the Rams in Wrigley field yesterday, but the pass is blocked and Chuck Ream of the Rams (39) recovers. The Cardinals won, 31 to 17. It was their final game of the season. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Baugh Pitches 15-0 Victory Over Pirates

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Sammy Baugh pitched the Washington Redskins to a 15 to 0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates today to keep them in the race for the eastern division championship of the National Professional Football league. The eastern title will be decided in New York next Sunday, when Washington plays the Giants.

The Redskins were leading by only three points and Pittsburgh was threatening to score when Sammy made his first appearance late in the game. The three points came in the early minutes on Tillie Manton's field goal.

Then Sammy Came In.

The Pirates came back strong in the second half and surged down to Washington's 3 yard line before the Redskins took the ball on downs. Baugh went into the game and began a series of passes from near his goal line. The first sally failed, but Sammy started again.

He flipped a pass to Wayne Millner on the Pirates' 38 yard line. The latter sidestepped Whizzer White, the Pirates' star, and raced to a touchdown.

The Redskins got the ball again two minutes later and Sammy threw a pass fifty-two yards in the air to Bob McChesney for another touchdown.

Pirates Lead in Yardage.

The Pirates made thirteen first downs to the Redskins' nine and outgained the Indians in rushing, 129 yards to 110. Washington advanced 252 yards through the air, while Pittsburgh got 180. Twenty-two thousand saw the game, played on a muddy field. Lineups:

Francis Plays Brilliantly in 14 to 14 All-Star Tie

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Sam Francis, Chicago Bear full back and former University of Nebraska player, was almost a one man team today as professional all-star elevens from Nebraska and Iowa battled to a 14 to 14 tie in a charity football game at Creighton university before 7,000 fans.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 27.—There are only two classes of people in California . . . those who think Southern California should represent the Pacific Coast conference in the Rose Bowl and those who think the University of California should have the honor. . . . Both teams finished their conference schedules with a record of six victories and one defeat. . . . The Trojans, however, whipped the Berkeley boys and their 42 to 7 triumph over U. C. L. A. Thanksgiving day gives them an edge. . . . The decision will be made by the faculty representatives of the conference schools tomorrow. . . . Dartmouth's 23 to 13 defeat by Stanford, a team that has been beaten six times by sectional opponents this season, was disappointing to eastern fans, but the representatives of the Ivy league showed Palo Alto two of the finest backs the coast has seen in a long time. . . . They were Capt. Bob MacLeod and Bill Hutchinson, both of whom played the full sixty minutes. . . . If MacLeod isn't All-America, there is no All-America team this season. . . . He is as expert a forward pass receiver as you ever will see and he can run with the ball like Bob Saggau of Notre Dame or Oliver Hahnenstein of Northwestern. . . . He's a good blocker and the best forward pass defensive man on the Dartmouth team. . . . Hutchinson, who has a year of competition left for the Green, is the best punter this department has seen this season and he can pass with anybody you care to name. . . . His failure to kick the point after Dartmouth's first touchdown threatened to make him the goat of the game, but Stanford relieved him of that embarrassment in the fourth period by scoring an extra touchdown and a safety for good measure. . . .

Coach Earl Blaik of Dartmouth said after the game that he rated Cornell, the other team that trounced the team from Hanover, on a par with Stanford. . . . Cornell's players are as big as Stanford's, he said, but they are built closer to the ground. . . . The western boys are taller and leaner. . . . Greg Zitrides, the Green's Greek guard, weighed only 164 pounds when he returned to the showers. . . . He played against a fellow who scaled 207. . . . Bill Gibson, Dartmouth center, is a son of Billy Gibson, who used to manage Gene Tunney. . . . Lou Young, guard, is the son of a former coach at the University of Pennsylvania. . . . Stanford's showing was evidence of the class the team might have displayed throughout the season if it had not lost the services of Paulman, Fay, and Standlee, three fine all around backs, at one time or another. . . . The Santa Clara band represented Dartmouth at the game. . . . Louis Highmark, Dartmouth guard, is a Phi Beta Kappa.

EDDIE ANDERSON QUITS AS COACH AT HOLY CROSS

Iowa May Name Him to Post Today.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Edward N. Anderson, head football coach at Holy Cross college, resigned his position tonight, it was announced by Thomas McCabe, director of athletics.

Dr. Anderson has coached Holy Cross for six years. He conferred last week with Walter L. Stewart of Des Moines, Ia., an alumni member of the University of Iowa's athletic board. It had been reported in Iowa that Anderson had been offered a three year contract as head football coach at the university at a reported salary of $12,500 a year.

Dr. Anderson had no contract with Holy Cross, coaching on a year-to-year basis. His annual salary was never announced but was believed to have been $7,500.

A Native of Iowa.

Anderson said he would announce his future plans "within a day or two."

"I have decided where I am to go," he said at his Brookline home tonight, "but it is not for me to say. I have enjoyed my association with Holy Cross players, student body, and faculty for the last six years, and will announce my future plans within a day or two."

Anderson is a native of Iowa and a graduate of Notre Dame, where he was a star end under Knute Rockne. Dr. Anderson has enjoyed unusual success as a coach since he came to Holy Cross in 1933 as successor to Capt. John J. McEwan.

Present Team a Strong One.

His 1935 and 1937 teams were unbeaten and this year's team, which closed its season with a 29 to 7 victory over Boston college yesterday, was beaten only by Carnegie Tech, 7 to 6. The team generally is rated one of the top ten in the country.

Dr. Anderson has had only two assistants at Holy Cross. Joe Sheeketski and Jim Harris, both former Notre Dame players, have been Dr. Anderson's aides. It is believed that both will accompany him to his new post.

The resignation, which Athletic Director McCabe characterized as "a distinct shock," technically is effective immediately, but Dr. Anderson said that should Holy Cross receive and accept a post-season bowl bid, he would be glad to coach the team for it.

Director "Not Consulted."

Director McCabe asserted that tonight was the first intimation he had that Anderson was leaving and that the coach should have consulted him.

In a statement, McCabe said:

"Dr. Anderson notified me tonight in a telephone call that he wished to resign. He gave no reason for the move, which comes as a distinct shock to me. This is the first intimation that Dr. Anderson intended to leave us. Of course I have read accounts in the newspapers the past week [about Anderson's rumored resignation], but felt that Dr. Anderson would consult me before accepting such propositons as have been carried in the press. I wish to make clear he made his decision without consulting officials at Holy Cross, and he is going because he wishes to go himself. We wish him all future success."

IOWA MAY ACT TODAY.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Edward N. Anderson, who resigned tonight as head football coach at Holy Cross, may be formally named University of Iowa coach tomorrow. Although Prof. Karl E. Leib, chairman of the Iowa athletic board, said tonight he had no comment on Anderson's resignation, it is believed Anderson has signed a three year contract with Iowa.

Chairman Leib said the board "might have a statement tomorrow or possibly Tuesday."

Lash Wins His Fifth Harrier Title in a Row

Newark, N. J., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Donald R. Lash, Indiana state policeman and former Indiana university star, fought off a stomach cramp and with a brilliant finish won his fifth straight National A. A. U. cross country championship today.

The Indiana two-miler was timed in 34:33.2 over a slippery 10,000 meter course of mud and snow, a distance equal to approximately six and one-quarter miles. His finish was 1:56.2 slower than the record he set for the course in 1936. Tempted to drop from the competition when he felt the cramp after a quarter-mile of running, Lash hung on to overtake Victor Dyrgall of New York's Millrose A. A. in the last fifteen yards and finish eight-tenths of a second in front.

Deckard Is Third.

Tommy Deckard, another former Indiana university runner, competing unattached, was third in 34:38. The Millrose A. A. successfully defended its team championship by scoring twenty-nine points, six better than the New York A. C.

Dyrgall had a comfortable lead going into the last two miles before a motorcycle policeman, preceding the runners, led him off the course. The New York runner regained his position, however, after plowing through ten yards of snow drift and came into the last 200 yards pressed by Lash and Deckard.

Both Have Same Idea.

There Lash and Deckard made simultaneous bids, but it was Lash who put on the greatest spurt and hurtled to the front just in time.

De George followed Deckard across the line, the first New York A. C. runner to finish. Ernest Federoff of the Millrose A. A. was next and James Rafferty of the New York A. C. and McCluskey followed. The first ten finishes and their times:

1. Don R. Lash, Indiana State Police, 34:33.2.
2. Victor Dyrgall, Millrose A. A., 34:34.
3. Tommy Deckard, unattached, Indiana, 34:38.
4. George D. De George, New York A. C., 34:53.
5. Ernest Federoff, Millrose A. A., 35:04.
6. James Rafferty, New York A. C., 35:10.
7. Joseph P. McCluskey, New York A. C., 35:12.
8. Thomas Quinn, Michigan State Normal, 35:24.
9. Peter Olexy, Millrose A. A., 35:26.
10. Robert Campbell, Norfolk Young Men's club, 35:38.

TINY THOMPSON GOES TO WINGS IN $15,000 DEAL

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28 [Monday].—(AP)—Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings announced today he had acquired Tiny Thompson, star goalie of the Boston Bruins, in exchange for $15,000 and Normie Smith, until recently the Red Wing goalie.

Smith recently was fined and suspended by Adams for missing a train from New York to Montreal. Later Adams ordered Smith to report to the Pittsburgh Hornets, Detroit farm club. Smith said he would quit before he would play minor league hocky.

Since Smith went to the sidelines the Wings have been using Harvey Teno, a youngster, in his place. The team has won only two games in nine starts.

the first play of the second period. He was carried from the field and taken to the Garfield Park hospital where it was believed he had suffered several crushed ribs.

Rams Kick Field Goal.

Cleveland put together three first downs in nine plays the first time it got possession of the ball. This advance carried forty-one yards to the Cardinals' 11 yard line. Corby Davis moved it up three yards in two smashes. When Snyder's pass to Benton in the end zone failed, Snyder dropped back to the 15 and, with Alfonse holding, place kicked the Rams into a 3 to 0 lead.

Tinsley fumbled the ensuing kickoff, but he recovered to get back seven yards to the 28. Coffee, with the help of some expert blocking, immediately took charge of the ball game. Starting wide around Benton's end behind Buddy Parker, he struck out for the sidelines. When Parker cut down Benton with a perfect block, Coffee swung inside and headed up the field. Dougherty, cutting over from his center position, cut down Chuck Cherundolo, the Rams' center, clearing the way for Coffee, who had only to outrace his pursuers to the goal line to accomplish his seventy-two yard touchdown run.

This Is Great Football.

Both second period scores were extraordinary, the Cardinals' from a spectacular aspect and the Rams' as a ludicrous commentary on major league thinking and officiating. Volok set up the Cardinals' score by breaking through and recovering Snyder's fumble on the Cardinals' 10. Coffee lost four yards, but the Cardinals were caught using their hands. Instead of penalizing them to the 1, the officials set the Cardinals back only half the distance to the goal, forgetting that the half-the-distance clause inside the 10 applies only on fouls by the defensive team.

Russell then went back into the end zone to punt. The pass from center was bad and he juggled it, recovering in time to get back to the 2 before he was hit. He dropped back into the end zone, faked a kick, and passed to Tinsley. Tinsley caught the ball in front of Alfonse, the safety man, sidestepped him, and continued seventy yards to the goal line. Patrick kicked the extra point. The next time the Cardinals got the ball they were back on their 18. Coffee moved it up three yards on an off tackle smash, then Jimmy Lawrence and the officials got together to confuse everybody.

Starts Out On End Run.

Lawrence started wide around Cleveland's right end. He was trapped and circled back to the 6. Here Cherundolo tackled him but, before he was down Lawrence attempted to ground a forward pass. The pass went backward instead of forward, however, and Benton scooped it up on the 4 and went over for a touchdown. The officials allowed the touchdown, although the team which does not put the ball in play cannot run with a fumbled backward pass, the rules say. Corby Davis kicked the extra point and the teams went to the intermission with the Cardinals leading, 14 to 10.

Patrick's field goal came early in the third period, after the Cardinals had marched thirty-five yards to the Rams' 33. After three passes had fallen incomplete, Patrick dropped back to the 40 and with Parker holding, arched a place kick high over the bar.

Seven plays later, Dougherty, following Braznell out into the weak side flat on a pass, intercepted Pincura's toss and raced twenty-seven yards for another Cardinal touchdown. Patrick again added the point and the Cardinals led, 24 to 10.

Final Chicago Touchdown.

The Rams received after this score, but on the first play Pincura's pass rolled off Stephens' fingers into Coffee's arms on the 36. Coffee rifled a pass to Smith for twenty-eight yards on first down and on the next play cut back outside the Rams' right tackle for eight yards and the final Cardinal touchdown.

There was no further scoring until Sloan fumbled Pincura's punt on the Cardinals' 16 early in the fourth period and Benton recovered for Cleveland on the 3. Drake blasted inside left tackle on the first play for the score and Dick Zoll kicked the extra point.

SPOKES BEAT FLORALS.

MOON MULLINS—NO HORSE SENSE

SANTA CLARA IS UPSET, 7-6, BY DETROIT ELEVEN

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The University of Detroit, scoring on a pass play in which luck played a prominent part, defeated Santa Clara's Broncos, 7 to 6, today before 16,000 fans.

Several days before the game Coach Gus Dorais of Detroit offered, as an experiment, to eliminate the try for the extra point after a touchdown. Nothing official came of the proposal, however. Had it been accepted, the game might have ended in a 6 to 6 tie.

Broncos Dominate Play.

The Broncos, completely dominating the first half, scored a touchdown in the first period. After reaching Detroit's 35 yard line on punt exchanges, Half Back Bruno Pellegrini whipped a pass to the sidelines, where Quarter Back Ray McCarthy caught it and dashed to a touchdown. Half Back Tom Gilbert failed on the try for point.

Eight minutes were gone in the third quarter when Detroit set up the winning points. The ball was deep in Titan territory, but a fifteen yard penalty for roughing on Santa Clara moved the ball out to the Detroit 31 yard line. From the 31 Half Back Palumbo dropped back and passed down the middle.

Second Loss Since 1936.

It was the second loss of the season for Santa Clara, winner of the last two Sugar Bowl games, and, until its defeat by St. Mary's a few weeks ago, unbeaten since 1936. Lineups:

CHICAGO ENTRIES WIN IN MIDWEST PIN TOURNAMENT

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Baby Ruth Candy company team of Chicago tonight won in the championship division of the annual midwest bowling tournament. A 3,105 rolled by the Baby Ruth five last night withstood all challenges today as team events closed. The team will receive $175 and five gold watches.

Don Pinc of Chicago totaled 749 today and that figure stood up throughout tonight's bowling to give him the singles championship. Babe Bunning, another Chicagoan, shared two first place prizes. The 1,341 Bunning rolled with Jim Burke in the doubles topped this division and he took the all-events with 2,054.

SMILIN' JACK—TWO TO ONE

Pacific Coast Picks Its Bowl Eleven Today

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Half of the Rose Bowl situation will be cleared up tomorrow, the other half—the naming of the team to be invited to the Pasadena game—doubtless will be done before the week is out.

At noon tomorrow the Pacific Coast conference will announce whether the Trojans of Southern California or the Golden Bears of the University of California are to represent the far west in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 2.

Indications point strongly to Southern California's getting the necessary vote from the nine other members of the conference. Hugh C. Willett, president of the conference and faculty representative of Southern California, will release the result of the vote from his office.

Trojans Beat Bears.

U. S. C. and California wound up in a tie for the conference title, but precedent says that when two elevens finish in a deadlock, the team that defeated the other gets the bid. And Southern California, on the basis of that reasoning, wrecked the chances of the Golden Bears coming back to Pasadena for the second straight year.

Telegraphic votes will come from U. C. L. A., Stanford, Washington, Washington State, Oregon, Oregon State, Idaho, Montana, as well as the ballots from California and Southern California.

Three Teams Stand Out.

The three leading candidates to oppose the far west, judging by unofficial talk, are Texas Christian, Tennessee, and unscored upon Duke, whose stock rose considerably with its 7 to 0 triumph over Pitt yesterday.

Asked about the possibilities, Southern California spokesmen shook their heads.

"Why should we enter the guessing game—we've got to get the conference nomination first," they said.

CARNEGIE CONSIDERS BIDS.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Athletic Director Clarence Overend said today the Carnegie Tech board of trustees probably would decide tomorrow whether Coach Bill Kern's Skibos would appear in one of the holiday bowl football classics. He reported receipt of six "feelers."

Tartan officials were tight-lipped on the matter but indications of favor for the Sugar or Cotton Bowl were seen in the fact that Dr. Eddie Baker, first assistant to Kern, scouted both Tennessee and Texas Christian the past week.

Carnegie authorities disclosed plans for the entire squad of forty-three to make the trip if one develops. Practice is scheduled to be resumed Dec. 12.

MAN WHO SAID HE WAS LOUIS' FATHER IS DEAD

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Lillie Barrow Brooks, mother of Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, said tonight she did not know whether a man who died at Mobile, Ala., was her former husband, as he had asserted. Mrs. Brooks, whose second husband died a year or two ago, said she had been notified of the death of Monroe Barrow in Mobile today and that two of her older children would go there to try to identify the body.

The fighter, training in West Baden, Ind., said he had never seen his father. When Barrow first advanced his claim of being Louis' father a year or more ago Joe said his father had been dead many years. Tonight Mrs. Brooks said she had always thought Joe's father was dead until Barrow insisted he was her former husband. She added that since he had come forth with his claim she did not know whether he actually was her former husband or an impostor. The champion's full name is Joe Louis Barrow.

LOYOLA BEATS GONZAGA, 20-19, IN FINAL GAME

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Loyola university ended an otherwise poor season today with a 20 to 19 victory over Gonzaga before 8,000. It was a thrilling game, featured by a 102 yard run by Tony Canadeo, 180 pound Gonzaga star, who took a Loyola kickoff in the end zone and zig-zagged his way down the field for a touchdown.

Revolta Shoots 284 to Win in Columbia Golf

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., won the $5,000 Columbia-Ridgewood open golf tournament today with a par score of 284 for the four eighteen hole rounds. He finished one stroke ahead of Harry Cooper of Chicago and Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Playing over a cold, windswept course, the long hitting Ryder cup team veteran let the five stroke lead he took into the final rounds slip away as he carded scores of 75—73, but his pursuers, also handicapped by the weather, failed to overtake him.

Wood Has a 69.

Wood, who started the day with a total of 143, six strokes back of Revolta, turned in scores of 73 and 69. His brilliant play in the afternoon almost netted him a tie with Revolta, but he missed an easy putt on the par 3 eighteenth and took a four.

Cooper went around in 71, even par, and 72 to add to his previous total of 142.

The eighteenth hole also proved costly to Sam Snead, who, starting the final lap with 214, came to the last tee needing only a par to tie Revolta. Snead, who played the morning round in par, drove short and to the left into the woods. His second shot hit a tree and he finally holed out in five to finish in a tie for third place with Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, N. Y.

Snead, Picard, Hines Tie.

Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., who shared the first day's lead with Revolta, finished behind Snead, Picard, and Hines with a score of 141—75—71—286 and took seventh place money of $270. The P. G. A. champion, Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., came in next with 142—74 73—289 to win $230.

Sparta Gains Semi-Finals in Peel Cup Play

BY OFFSIDE.

The Sparta soccer team, national champion, defeated the Burkes Sports Club of St. Louis, 5 to 2, yesterday in Sparta stadium to take their two game Peel cup series, 6 to 2, and enter the semi-finals of the competition for the trophy now held by the Manhattan Brewers.

The Spartas had beaten the Burkes, 1 to 0, last week in St. Louis, but yesterday had a much easier time. The first half was close, with the Burkes holding a 2 to 1 lead at the intermission, but in the final period Sparta drove in four goals while holding its opponents scoreless. MacDermott led the champions' attack with three goals.

MacDermott Opens Scoring.

MacDermott got his first goal five minutes after play had opened on a cross by Wolf. The Burkes then opened up a furious offensive, but were held off until the final minutes of the period, when McNab scored from penalty and L. Garci took advantage of a Sparta defensive lapse to make it 2 to 1 at the half.

Resuming play favored by the wind, Sparta tied the score on a break eight minutes through the second period. Cueto handled the ball when he thought it had crossed the line, a penalty was granted, and MacDermott scored. Wolf made it 3 to 2 at the fifteen minute mark, and Nudera and MacDermott added the final two goals.

Swedish Team Upset.

Two close matches were played in the amateur division of the Peel cup competition. The Swedish-Americans were upset by the Vikings, 1 to 0, on a goal by Lindquist, and the Kickers lost to the Hakoahs, 1 to 0, Schuessler scoring in the first period. The Schwabens beat the Maccabees, 4 to 0, in the junior Peel cup final.

In other soccer games yesterday the Kolpings whipped the German-Americans, 3 to 0, in an International league match and the Sparta Seconds scored a 2 to 0 exhibition triumph over Slavia.

BREWERS PLAY TIE.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Manhattan Brewers of Chicago continued in the Peel cup competition today by holding the Lindell Trusts of St. Louis to a scoreless tie. The Lindells had dropped the opening game at Chicago, 6 to 1, giving the Manhattans the advantage in total goals.

Robb and Williams nearly scored for Chicago toward the end of the game, but the play of Rodriguez, St. Louis goalie, staved off the attack. Scoring chances were held down by a slippery field.

CANADIENS WIN AT LAST; WINGS ARE VICTIMS, 3-2

Two Goals in 3d Period Bring Elusive Victory.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens scored their first victory of the National Hocky league season by defeating the Detroit Red Wings, 3 to 2, tonight. The Canadiens had lost seven games and tied one.

After a listless opening period Detroit scored early in the second when Eddie Wares fired a drive past Goalie Claud Bourque while the Canadiens were a man short. Late in the period Toe Blake tied the score.

Less than a minute after the third period opened the Canadiens went in front when George Mantha got his first goal after taking a pass from Walter Buswell. Detroit tied it up a few minutes later when a furious five man assault produced a goal by Eddie Wares, but Mantha drove in the winning goal at 12:41 on a smash into the corner of the net. BRUINS, 8; AMERICANS, 2

Boston, Mass., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins tonight avenged their only defeat of the National Hocky league season by overwhelming the New York Americans, weary from playing three games in four nights, 8 to 2, before 10,000 in Boston Garden.

After the Bruins drove home three goals in the first 14 minutes of play, two of them by Dit Clapper, the Americans kept four and five men on the attack during the remainder of the game.

The aggressive tactics were costly, for the Americans were trapped five times as the Bruins piled up the score. Ray Getliffe also scored twice and the other Boston goals were driven through Earl Robertson by Bill Cowley, Gordon Pettinger, Cooney Weiland, and Mel Hill.

Late in the third period, Nels Stewart was forced against the backboards and he fired an angle shot that slipped into the Boston cage after being deflected by Defenseman Jack Crawford's skate. Hooley Smith got the other American goal a minute later. The lineups:

Dresser Drawers.

Dresser drawers are my pet peeve,
They are so big and wide.
I have almost to climb right in
To find what is inside.

They were made to hold, one time,
A woman's underwear:
Full petticoats and pantalettes,
And chemises with a flare!

All stiffly starched, so that they made
A heaping pile to hustle
Into a drawer, remembering
To leave room for a bustle.

Now milady's underthings
Are fleeting as her smile;
Her weekly stock of undies
Makes a dinky little pile.

That she must store in drawers so wide
And deep and big and strong,
That she must bend and stoop and poke
To find things! It's all wrong!

But still the male designers
Hand us women drawers like those
That were made to hold a mountain
Of by-gone [thank goodness!] underclothes.

When the evening performance had concluded, these two competitors were tied in victories with four each. Red Top farm went into the lead Saturday, only to have the Dodge stables even up matters yesterday afternoon. Each contender added a blue ribbon at the evening show.

Snuffy Smith Wins.

Red Top farm broke through first when its Snuffy Smith, a 5 year old chestnut gelding, defeated the Dodge entry, Mistress of Rhythm, and eight other entries in the class for three gaited saddle horses.

The Dodge stables came back with a blue ribbon with Honeysuckle Rose and Fleetwood Verbena in the event for pairs for harness horses. Second went to the team of Killearn Marvel and High Society from Nan-Su farm of Northbrook.

Other important firsts included those of Pine Tree farm of McHenry with Captain Bill, a five year old gelding in the class for five gaited stallions or geldings, and Cassilis Crystal, eight year old brown mare from Nan-Su farm, in the event for harness ponies other than Shetland.

The evening crowd applauded the horsemanship class sponsored by the Town and Country Equestrian association in which Hope Landis won in a field of sixteen riders. Betty Jane Quillin was second.

Artillery Poloists Win.

The 124th Field Artillery Gunners polo team defeated Fort Sheridan, 6 to 2, in the evening polo game. The afternoon match ended in a 2 to 2 tie between the Cowboys and the 124th Field Artillery Hornets.

Tonight's program will include a parade of 1,200 farm boys and girls who have attained leadership in the 4-H club membership of 1,255,000. They are at the stock show as a reward for their accomplishments. Another polo game and numerous special events will punctuate competition among the nation's outstanding saddle and harness horses, roadsters, hunters, and jumpers. Summaries:

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

EDISON MAY USE 75 MILLIONS TO EXPAND PLANTS

Plan Expenditure for Next 2 Years.

James Simpson, chairman of the Commonwealth Edison company, said yesterday that the Edison group of companies may make capital expenditures of $75,000,000 in the next two years to meet growing demand for services.

James Simpson.

He said that $14,000,000 from funds now being raised by the sale of new securities has been reserved for the construction of additional producing facilities.

"With confidence in the future of Chicago and the outlying area served," he added, "it is estimated that in the next two years $75,000,000 in capital expenditures may be necessary to meet increasing demand."

Reports on Refinancing.

Simpson made a general report on the progress made by the company on its comprehensive program of financial readjustment, which was begun several years ago. The report is being made through newspaper advertisments being published today.

The method of reporting directly to the public on the affairs of a corporation, in which there is widespread interest, marks a new departure in corporate practice. The statement, which is signed by Simpson, is addressed to the company's 1,300,000 customers, its stockholders, who number more than 80,000, and its bondholders and employés.

"It is an obligation of management," Simpson said, "to publish reports on the operation of businesses in which the public has a vital interest."

Simpson said the major preliminary objective of the program will be accomplished by the end of 1938. The program is intended to effect a readjustment in the company's capital structure, cutting down the proportion of funded debt by converting bonds into stocks.

$224,000,000 Securities Sold.

Since May, 1938, the company has marketed $224,000,000 of securities. The sale of an additional $59,000,000 of securities will be completed by the end of the year.

The securities already sold included $146,000,000 of mortgage bonds and $78,000,000 of convertible debentures. Arrangements have been made for the sale of an additional $34,000,000 of bonds and $25,000,000 of debentures.

At the end of October, Simpson reported, funded debt represented 53.4 per cent of the company's total capitalization. This compared with 62.4 per cent for funded debt at the end of 1936 before the refinancing program was undertaken.

By the end of this year, Simpson added, the funded debt will be cut to 50.5 per cent of total capitalization.

POUND OF COAL PULLS 8 4/5 TONS ONE MILE FOR U. S. RAILROADS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The nation's railroads reported today that they had made coal work for them more efficiently this year than ever before.

The Association of American Railroads announced that in the first nine months of the year the carriers hauled 8 4-5 tons of freight and equipment one mile for each pound of coal consumed in freight service. In the passenger service 14.7 pounds of coal provided power enough to haul one passenger train car one mile.

The association reported that factors which made possible this efficiency included scientific selection of coal, improved construction of locomotives, and improved methods of railroad operation.

Burlington's Revenues in October Top Year Ago

The Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy railroad yesterday reported net railway operating income of $2,072,275 for October. This compared with $1,741,360 in October, 1937. Net operating income for the first ten months of 1938 totaled $9,090,420, compared with $10,440,709 in the corresponding 1937 period.

TRADE TREATIES GIVE SMALL AID TO U. S. FARMERS

Only Granted Parity with Competitors.

American wheat, corn, and hog producers will get little benefit from the new trade treaties, grain traders predicted yesterday after analyzing the treaty texts. The pacts, signed Nov. 17 with England and Canada, will become effective Jan. 1.

The chief effect as far as wheat is concerned, traders said, will be that American farmers can compete on even terms with Canadians and Australians. That is because the treaty with Britain removed a 6 cents a bushel duty that has been levied on wheat from nonempire countries.

Otherwise, the United States did not get any preferential concessions on these three farm items, grain men observed. Under the most favored nation program England will grant other nations the same terms made with the United States.

World Wheat Prices Decline.

Meantime the world price of wheat, representing an average of all markets, continues to decline. It is now the lowest since the 1933-'34 season.

Corn prices have been showing independent strength while wheat declined. This is said to be because farmers are showing a marked tendency to hold their corn. They are expected to pledge millions of bushels of grain as security for government loans. The loan rate is 57 cents a bushel.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Farm's Lambs Win.

November 27, 1938.

THE two carloads of lambs from the Du Page county farm are among the winners at the International Live Stock exposition which is being held at Union Stockyards this week. Both carloads were shown in the lightweight class, winning fourth and sixth places in the native lamb contest.

These lambs, along with others competing in the fat carlot contest, will be sold at public auction at the exposition on Thursday. The meat will be consumed during the Christmas holidays.

W. J. Brodie of Stouffville, Ont., Canada, won the grand champion carlot award at the International for the fifth consecutive year. David McEwin of London, Ont., a heavy winner at former Internationals, won second place in the native carlot lamb competition.

Changes His Plans.

John Rawlings, flockmaster at the Du Page county farm, had planned to enter one carload of the lambs in the lightweight class and the other load in the heavyweight class. But when the animals were finally selected and weighed before being turned into the show pens, the heaviest load weighed less than the average weight of 85 pounds required by the judging rules. So the entire flock of show lambs was exhibited in the same class.

This year the flockmaster tried out a pasture lambing plan followed by some breeders who want late lambs so they will not be too large to compete in the lightweight class at midwinter shows. Unfavorable weather at lambing time and internal parasites caused heavy losses and left the lambs in an unthrifty condition at the time they were put on feed early in the fall. They were born in the open pasture during May and June.

Despite this serious handicap, the lambs made surprising gains during the two months they were on full feed. Rawlings is convinced that the fattening ration used in preparing the lambs for the show was worthwhile. They were given a mixture of shelled corn and oats in equal proportions, supplemented by molasses feed and wheat bran. Clover and alfalfa hay was given as roughage.

Follows Usual Practice.

The flockmaster again is following his established practice of having the lambs dropped early indoors. The ewes kept in the farm's breeding flock have been mated to drop most of their lambs in February. Some may be born the latter part of January, while others may come early in March.

Sixteen extra lambs left after the show lambs were cut out still are being held for sale at Union Stockyards. The sale has been delayed because the market was closed during the strike of live stock handlers at the yards the latter part of last week.

STEEL OUTPUT SHOWS SIGNS OF LEVELING

Buyers Are Cautious Near End of Year.

Steel ingot production eased a point last week to 62 per cent of capacity, the magazine Steel estimated yesterday. Signs of the anticipated leveling off in steel demand and production are more pronounced, the magazine said.

"Seasonal influences are retarding business in some products," the journal continued. "With the approach of the year-end, buyers generally are ordering only for early needs, and little, if any, improvement will be shown in November bookings. Sheet and strip sales are off substantially since a month ago because of previous forward coverage.

"Nevertheless, the outlook for relatively steady steel making during the remainder of the quarter is bright. Production dropped one point to 62 per cent last week, the first reduction since early in October. This is believed to mark the passing of the fall peak in operations, but business on hand and in prospect will temper further seasonal recession."

Scrap prices continue strong, but the trend is mixed in some centers. Advances at Pittsburgh and Chicago raised Steel's scrap composite 17 cents to $14.96 a ton.

$180,000 ASKED IN ACTION AGAINST CIRCUS COMPANY

Suit against the Amusement Corporation of America, charging a $180,000 breach of contract in the merger of three circus companies, was filed in Superior court Saturday by J. Frank Hatch, it was disclosed yesterday.

Hatch, a New York broker and former owner of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, said that last September he effected the merger of the Royal American shows, Rubin & Cherry expositions, and Barney & Gerety shows. The new $800,000 corporation was named the Amusement Corporation of America, with John C. McCaffrey at its head.

Hatch asserted he was to receive at least $180,000 for his part in the transaction. McCaffrey and the operators of the three shows are named as defendants.

Other Metals in Steel.

Molybdenum is used to produce a steel that is capable of being drawn or hammered out without losing its strength and toughness. It makes possible a strong steel that is particularly valuable for tubing and certain machinery parts. Such steel, among other things, is used in airplane fuselages.

Vanadium gives resiliency and strength to steel used in tools, springs, and machinery parts. The United States produces about 15 per cent of the total output and supplements its supply with imports from Peru and Rhodesia.
